

Homes Juje Books 1200 30383/A

7 T H Bir That lie By I Sar LON to H

PREROGATIVE

Pzimogeniture:

s HEWING,
That the Right of *SUCCESSION*TO AN

Hereditary Crown,

DEPENDS

Not upon Grace, Religion, &c.
But Onely upon

Birth-Right and Primogeniture;

AND

That the Chief Cause of all, or most, Rebellions in Christendom, is a Fanatical Belief, That,

Temporal Dominion is founded in Grace.

By DAVID JENNER, B. D. Prebendary of Sarum, and Rector of Great Warley in Effex.

LONDON, Printed for J. Hindmarsh, Bookseller to His Royal Highness, at the Black Bull in Cornhill. 1685.

94951 Moft-Royal and In D DUKENERMAN EA ENG MEDICAL ENGLENEL A Con SHE SHOWER FRANK TO SEPTEMBER Go a in Chaptening is a Townson Bellets ward Stanish in June 12 Sections. oher note: Rord High to settle Hall Son in 1988 1960

TO THE Moft Royal and High-Born
PRINCE, JANES,
DUKE of YORK
AND ALBANY,
EARL of ULSTER,

LORD High Admiral of ENGLAND, IRELAND, And all Foreign Plantations, Constable of Dover-Castle, Lord Warden of the Cinque-Ports, Governour of Portsmouth, &c.

Most Royal Sir,

YOUR Unparallel'd Magnanimity, and other Your most Eminent A 2 Ver-

Vertues and Excellencies, are so well known to the Christian World, as that Envy it self cannot obscure them.

And whatever English
Man does, or shall hereafter, audaciously presume, to deny You his hearty xaipe and Euge, is, and ever will be, unworthy, any longer to be an Inhabitant of Great Britain,

in V

and

An

oft

tor

Cor

Whose present Peace and Prosperity (next unto Almighty God's Over-ruling Providence, and unto Our most Gratious King's Wise

Wise Conduct of Assairs) is Owing unto Your Highness's Matchless Valour and Prudence,

The which You have most signally demonstrated in Vanquishing the King's and the Nation's Enemies

Abroad,

And in being highly instrumental in Suppressing them at Home:

So that, if Fabius Maximus Deserved the Thanks of the whole Roman-Senate, for his prudent Management of their Republick Concerns, A 3 Then,

fare

Cou

oft-

pret

Own

requ

fin

Ex

do

Pre

Pro

Ci

of (

pov

Then, infinitely more, has Your Royal Highness Merited, not onely the Thanks of Our English Senate, but over and above, even Statues and Shrines of Gold, Gratefully to be exceed, in perpetual Memory of Your most Glorious Atchievements.

But, Ab, ungratefull England! That, after Your most Illustrious Highness had Jeoparded Your Royal Person in many desperate and bloudy Battels, at Sea, and at Land, onely for the Honour and Welfare

The Epistle Dedicatory:
fare of this Your Native Country, whose Safety You oft-times most Generously preferred before Your Own,

You should, at last, be so basely and so inbumanely

requited,

As to have an Unchrifian and Unnatural Bill of Exclusion from Your Undoubted Birth-Right, pass against You, through the Prevalency of the AntiProtestant and Factious Associatours, in the late House of Commons, who, (overpowering the Loyal Party
A 4

The Epifle Dedicatory.
in the said House) Voted,
Sabbati 6. die Novembris 1680, and on Sabbati (a day, when, surely! those Fanatical Persons thought the Holy fesus was again
gone out of this World,
down into the Grave as to his Body, and Descended into Hell as to his Soul, doing Penance there for Mankind,

And so, would not, on a Saturday, be present, upon Earth, to eye and behold their disloyal and disingenuous Actions, and therefore, They became Rampant,

Ir

1 be Epistie Dearcarory.

pant, and did what they pleased in spight of God and the King; And being a Majority, they Voted, Nemine Contradicente, Sabbati) 26 die Martii 1681.

Your Royal Highness's Exclusion from the Imperial Crown of England and Ireland, &c.

Printed by the Order of Wi. Williams, Speaker.

The state of A Vote, steep'd in so much Gall and Vinegar, and attended with so much Disloyalty and Ingratitude, As might justly have set

The Epistle Dedicatory.

All Your Noble and Heroick Passions on fire;

But, God be praised!

In imitation of the Captain of our Salvation,

You have perfectly Conquered Your self.

Which personal Victory, according to, not onely the Stoical, but also, Christian, Philosophy, is more Memorable, than All your other most Famous Conquests. And Casar like, nay, rather fesu like, You have forgot Nothing, but to be Revengefull, upon Your inveterate Enemies.

Which

The Epiftle Dedicatory. Which is Your Immortal Glory.

And one thing, I most humbly fuggest to Your Princely and most Christian Confideration, as an unde-niable Truth,

Scil. That Those Your Enemies, who have, or still do, endeavour Your Royal Highness's Exclusion, (Contrary to the Divine and Natural Law of Your Birth-Right and Primogeniture) neither were, nor are, Protestants, nor any true Sons of the Church of England as now established by Law,

But they were, and are, onely a Company of Perjured Pseudo-Protestants,

Who under the specious pretence of being Vogued Protestants, did, and still do, carry on their Diabolical Faction and Treasonable Association.

For, in England, onely He is a Protestant, who heartily believes, and as heartily protests for, and couragiously defends,

The King's Supremacy,

And

Beaufrons,

And who (Christianlike) Cordially declares for the Succession of the King's Lawfull Heir according to Primogeniture, whether He be Papist or Protestant, whether Morally Good or Bad;

For, This is the constant and professed Doctrine of the Apostolical Protestant Church of England, was

As (I humbly conceive) is sufficiently proved in the following Treatife,

The which does truly blush to approach Your Royal

Royal and most Illustrious Presence, in its mean Dress and Country Garb.

But, forasmuch as it is the lively Draught of a most Loyal Heart towards His Majesty, and of a most Faithfull and Devoted one, towards Your Highness;

The Authour, therefore, most humbly begs Your Candid Acceptance of it;

Assuring Your High-

ness,
That, He has no other Ambition in Publishing the fame, than, where he lives to be instrumental in educating and instructing the People in the true Principles of Primitive Piety and Loyalty,

And, whilft He lives, be serviceable (according to his Capacity) unto God, the King, and the Ghurch;

And to let the World know, that He is,

Your Royal Highness's

Most Dutifull, most Humble

and Devoted Servant,

David Jenner.

dvani isaserniki dada ola mai i i dini i ili Auto I State of the state of th William Charles William Charles , myst was straken as finilise min i 4 Lockward Alexander a sout whom the The state of the CAMPAGE CONTRACTOR June big I

CI

Mona

That

Go

THE # CONTENTS

CHAP. I.

THE Necessity of Government Page 1.

CHAP. II.

Monarchy the best Form of Government p. 6.

CHAP. III.

That all Kings, and their Lawfull Heirs, ought by Right of Primogeniture, to Reign and Govern Successively, whether they be Morally Good or Bad, whether Infidels or Christians, Papists or Protestants

p. 18.

b SECT.

SECT. I.

The 1

The

A

That

The

The

The Proposition proved by Humane Authority, of Heathens ibid.

SECT. II.

The Proposition;

That Succession to the Throne ought to be by Primogeniture, and not by Grace, proved by Divine Authority

P. 21.

SECT. III.

The Proposition proved by the Unalterable Law of Inheritance by Primogeniture p. 25.

SECT. IV.

The Proposition proved by Reason and the Common Sentiments of Religion Posts.

The Bill of Exclusion of the Duke of York, proved to be unlawfull and finfull Posts.

Athermal

Atheistical and Factious ibid.
Opposite to the known Law of God. p.41.
The Cause of perpetual Civil Wars and Sedition p. 42.
The chief Pleas and Arguments for it, Answered p. 43,44,&c.

CHAP. IV.

That all Subjects ought Actively to obey their Lawfull Prince, in all things which be not Positively against some known Law of God, although, their said Prince be an Heathen, Idolater and Apostate, or never so Morally vitious.

P. 56.

SECT. I.

0-d

7:

The Duty of Obedience to Superiours, whetheh Morally Good or Bad, proved by the Law of Nature and of Natural Reason

P. 57.

SECT. II.

The Duty of Obedience to Superiours, whether Christians or Heathens, b 2 Good

Good or Bad, proved by Authority of Divine Reason and Scripture p.67.

SECT. III.

The Proposition;

That all Lawfull Kings, whether Morally Good or Bad, ought to be obeyed, proved by the Authority and Factice of honest Heathens p. 72.

S ECT. IV.

That all Lawfull Kings ought Actively to be obeyed, in all things which are not against some positive Law of God, although the said Kings be Heathens, Idolaters and Apostates, or never so vitious, proved by the Authority and Practice of the Primitive Christians p. 82.

SECT. V.

Modern Authours for Obedience to Princes: Of two forts.

1. Some Conditionally; as All Recufants p. 104.

2. Some

Th

The

2. Some Absolutely; as All Proteflants p. 110.

CHAP. V.

The Doctrine and Practice of Deposing Kings, and of Excluding the Right Heir by Primogeniture, from succeeding in the Throne, for his want of Grace, or for being an Heretick, Idolater, Tyrannical or Wicked, is grounded,

1. Upon Popery p. 122.

2. Opon Fanaticism p. 135.

CHAP. VI.

A Parallel; or a brief and true Account of some Plots and Treasons of Papists and Fanaticks, against the Kings and Queens of England, since the Resormation and Abrenunciation of Popery p. 155.

The Popish Bygot's Covenant p. 163.
The Fanaticks Scotch and English Covenant p. 165.

CHAP. VII.

The chief Cause of Rebellion among Christians, is a Belief of that false Position, to wit, That, Temporal Dominion is founded in Grace p. 172.

SECT. I.

Arguments proving, That, Temporal Dominion is not founded in Grace p. 178.

SECT. II.

The evil Effects and Consequences of this Position, That, Temporal Dominion is founded in Grace,

Are such as these,

I. CONVENTICLES p. 185.

II. REBELLION p. 187.

III. A

III. A Confirming Heathen Kings and Princes in their Infidelity, and Denial of Christ p. 191.

ERRATA.

PAg. 35. and many other places, for onely, reade only. p. 105. l. 11. without the Pope's Laws, r. without the Pope's Laws, r. without the Pope's leave. p. 89. in Margin, r. in Secessis abdito. p. 149. l. 7. or, r. of. p. 179. l. 17. r. or for Idolatry. In the Epift. Ded. ult. p. l. 6. add to.

n

A

P . V do

PREROGATIVE

O F

PRIMOGENITURE.

CHAP. I.

The Necessity of Government.

Overnment bears date with, if not before, the Creation; and runs parallel with Time, if not with Eternity; And is in many respects more necessary than Life or Being it self:

For it is not necessary, that any particular finite Beings should always Exist; But it is absolutely necessary, they should always be Governed, whilst they do Exist.

The World, although made for Man, did, and still can, subfift well enough without him; But not without his Obedience.

And therefore, as Orpheus aptly named Harmony the Life of Musick, so Plato not improperly styled Order and Government the Life of the Universe: For Government, tanquam Anima, even as a Soul, Animates all parts of the World with a Political Life, and causes every Individual to answer the end of its Existency, which is the Conservation of the Whole, although it be with the loss of its own particular, natural Life: For, in this Case, the Publick Good is ever to be preferred, before a Private. And it is better. not to be at all, than not to be usefull.

Were it not for Government, there would be neither Being nor Well-Being: for, every thing would take up Arms under pretence of Self-prefervation, and then, the Conclusion can be nothing else but Confusion: for, ac-

Grot. de Jur. cording to the Jewish Proverb, Nist Bell. 1. 1. c. 4. potestas publica esset, alter alterum vivum deglutiret, &c. Unless there were pub-

la-

e :

en

ular,

he er,

ile-

Be-

up

DQ.

1 be

ac-

W.

rere

publick Government, One would become a prey to the Other; even as the (a) Genus his (a) Aborigines in the East, and the minum agre-Mohegians in the West, Indies, who, bus, sine impehaving no Laws nor Government, rio, liberum eat and devour one another alive atq; folutum, And (b) St. Chrysoftome, writing on (b) Tav nothe Necessity and Benefit of Govern- News Tes" Agment, informs us to the same purpose, Sopras de, Scil. That where there is no Govern- ງພາ ຂ່າວງຜ່ານment, there men soon lose the exer-er Biwoiucife of their Reason, and become more popular annifavage and cruel, than the irrational Aus a) Rate-Brutes, and not onely fnarle and bite Stortes, &c. like Dogs, but even devour each other, like rapacious Birds, and ravenous Beafts of prey: And it is most certain, that there never happened any Evil, either in Heaven among the Angels, or on Earth among Men, but upon the Breach of Law and good Government.

The Hebrew word Van, which we translate, to Govern, primarily and emphatically fignifies to Bind, and to Heal a wound by Binding it up tight and close after the manner of Chirurgeons: And Codurcus, applying the proper fignification of the said

B 2 1 4 2

Codurc. in Job. 34. v. 17, 18.

word unto Government, tells his Reader, Quod Imperium, Jura, Leges sint velut Vincula Reipublicæ, &c. That Government, Laws, and Statutes, are the fure Bands and Ligaments of the World in general, and of every Kingdom in particular, which knit and firmly tie all parts together, and so prevent a Rupture; for, Sine imperio & Magistratu solvuntur omnes Civilis Societatis Compages, &c. Without Government there can be no Civil Society, but all things must unavoidably run into Anarchy and Confusion, which, certainly, can please none of Mankind, but onely Timon of Athens the Man-Hater, and fuch who delight to sport and fish in troubled waters.

2 p

141

Rings and Governours, are very appositely in Hebrew termed ΤΑΝ, Heads; Because, they, as Heads, do Govern and Order all the inferiour Members of the several Bodies-politick: And, τοῖς ὁμφαλοῖς τῶν ↓αλίδων, Kings are like the great Fice and Beams of the Building, or chief Corner-stones of the House, which keep up, and support, the whole Fabrick; and therefore are they most elegantly styled, led, Clavi Reipublicæ, the main Pins and Studs of the Common-wealth: All which sufficiently speaks the indispensable Necessity of Government in general.

C.

y

je.

i.

h-и,

of

ns

do our oli-

and

And as to the Original, or first Authour of Government, it is no other than Almighty God, the Supreme Monarch and Governour of the whole World, visible and invisible:

Wherefore, whoever Refists Government, is truly said, in Holy Writ, to Refist God himself: And he that will turn a persect Libertine, and would live without Government, must turn a persect Atheist, and must live without God in the World.

Monarchy the best Form of Go-vernment.

HE Moral Philosopher discoursing on the various sorts of Government, gives the Precedency unto Monarchy, as being Divino Imperio quam similima, most like the Government of the All-wise God, which is the first and the best of all.

(a) Deut.
33. 5.
Moses was King in Fesurun.
Maimon. in Loc.

Eupolemus, in his Book de Judea Regibus, makes (a) Moses to be an absolute Monarch over the Jews, and that he was accountable unto none for his Actions, but onely unto God, as the Sacred Scriptures in many instances do prove: and, riv Moon negrov Soody yevedas, &c. and that he, even Moses, was the first of the Wise men, who studied, promulged, and practifed, the Right Rules and Laws of Monarchical, Military, and Ecclesiastick Government: and it is added in Moses

th

M

Gr

Moses his Encomium, that, Moses περφητικός, νομιοθετικός, παντικός, ερατημε Clem. Alex.
πὸς, πολιτικός, φιλόσορος, &c. He was strom. l. r. an inspired Prophet, an experienced Politician, a judicious Legislatour, a prudent and valiant Souldier, a profound Philosopher: And therefore of all men then living, he was most eminently and singularly qualified for managing and swaying the Regal Sceptre.

And Numenius the Pythagorean Philosopher is of opinion, That Plato, who wrote excellently for Monarchy, and the other Grecians, especially the Lacedemonians and Macedonians, who ever preserved Monarchy before all other Forms of Government, borrowed all, or most, of their Arguments for so doing from King Moses:

e.

le

A

10

an

or

as 10-

101 en

en,

1a-

And therefore the fame Authour tells us, that in truth Plato was no other than Moses, π γάς ἐςι Πλάτων, ἢ Clem. Alex. Μωσῆς ἀπινίζων; &c. speaking in the Strom. l. i. Greek Dialect.

And Miltiades the Athenian Empe- * Tito overrour, is faid to have learnt from * Mo- did Midtades fes's Writings, his great Policy, by out to de which he so prosperously governed resource, ibid.
B 4

his Civil and Military Affairs, and more particularly his War-like Strategems, by which he fubtily over-came Dates the Persian General: And Clement Alexandrinus notes farther, Плаτων δε δ Φιλόσοφος, έκ των Μωσέως τα TEO i The Nomo Desian worknowis, &c. that Plato being instructed by Moses as to the Right way of Government, ἐπιτίμησε μέν τῷ Μίνωος καὶ Λυκέργε πολιτεία, &c. found fault with Minos's and Lycurgus's Polity. But, हेन्स्रीपहरू कि ώς σεμινοτέραν, την έν τι λέγεσαν, nal πε ζε δόγμα εν νέυκσαν αιεί, &c. He highly commended Moses's Polity and Institution of Monarchy, in which there was but One to Decree and Command, and but One to be Pleased and Obeyed.

Cæsar Octavianus Angustus, after the Murther of Julius Cæsar, consulting with those two Great States Men, Agrippa and Mæcenas, what Form of Government was best to be erected, as being most sutable to the Genius of hn

Fa

ru

the Roman People:

The aforementioned Politicians differ'd in their Sentiments,

For Agrippa, being a stiff Common-wealths wealths Man, declared for DE MO-CRACI, alledging that the Legislative Power was in the People.

But Macenas (a true Kings Man)

advised for Monarchy:

1/2-nt,

rs's

DE

Kal

He

1111-

and ul-

len,

ed.

10%-

And he enforced his Advice with this argument, scil. Because the Romans at first derived their Religion, their Laws and Manner of their first form of Government (which was Monarchical) from the Grecians, who (before their intestine Rebellions and Seditions) were Originally for Monarchy; And He observed, That, exquo Monarchiæ renunciarant, quo quiescerent, nunquam invenere, &c. Ever since, the Grecian People had (through the prevalency of a Common wealth-Faction) thrown off Monarchy, they could never acquiesce in any other kind of Government, But, like the * Moon, were often changing their Aspect and Face of Government, which changes bred bad bloud, corrupted their Common-wealth's Body, and could no other way be cured, but by opening the Veins with the point of the Sword in * Nova rerum facies subinde apparuit, cædésque horrendæ perpetratæ sunt, dum hi Oligarchiæ, illi Democratiæ partes tuerentur, Grc. Hoel. Element. Hist. l. 4. §. 2.

the

the heat of Mutual Contests, and Civil Broils, and Bloudy Wars, which Wars never ended, until Monarchy was restored in the Persons of King Philip and Alexander the Great.

Ibid.

In like manner, says Macenas, Principio Imperium penes Reges erat, donec Ambitio & Seditionis assus alias vivendi Rationes excogitaverint, &c. The Romans were from the Beginning governed by Kings, untill the Pride and Ambition of some Ropular-Republicans raised a direfull and bloudy Sedition, and Rebelliously and Tumultuously Deposed their Kings, and by Fraud and Violence expelling Monarchy, they introduced Democracy, Oligarchy, and sometimes Aristocracy.

But it so fell out, that when they had unhinged the Primitive, Monarchical Government, They, like the Rebellious Grecians, were never satisfied; but with every puff and blast of popular fancy, altered their new Model of Government: For within the space of 134 years, they had 37 forts of Government in Rome: Thus argued Maccenas, and from the premisses, he concluded, that Monarchy was the most

Rom

fort

der

Aff

EXC

#21

wh

17

Th

Fair mile

Ca

by ng

21%-

rec

U2-

ing

ide

ub-

ul-

by ar-)li-

ley

ar-Re-

ed;

podel

ace

of

led he

the

most proper Form of Government, for all Mankind, but especially for the Romans. Whereupon, Casar sententi- Ibid. 5. 5. am ejus amplexus, IMPERATORIS Titulum accepit, &c. Ostavius Casar adhered to Macenas his Advice, and forthwith took upon him, the Illustrious Title of EMPEROUR: and under his prudent Conduct of publick Affairs, the Roman Empire flourished exceedingly, even to Admiration.

And we Christians may, by the way, add this Note, to wit, That when Monarchy was restored and sirmly settled under Augustus Casar, that then, and not before, happened to be The Fulness of Time, in which Christ fesus the Great King of Heaven and Earth came into the World, and manifested his Glory: and He, not onely Consirmed Casar in his Earthly Throne, but also to prevent all Rebellion and Disobedience against his Casarean Power and Majesty, Christ himself paid Tribute to Casar, and charged all others to doe the like.

Nicocles, or rather Isocrates, perso- isocrat. Ninating the Emperour Nicocles, writes cock ora. 3.

an whole Oration in the praise of Monarchy, in Opposition to Oligarchy and

Igno

ver easi

Va

1100

1101

Su

to

WO

Democracy:

And arguing, Sià Thi avayumi, &c. from the Necessity of Monarchy, and on the Necessity of Monarchy, and on the Necessity of Monarchy, and one, &c. from the Antiquity and long Continuance of it in all peaceable Ages, He concludes, Bedtish Tair addamn Hoditerary, &c. Monarchy to be the best of all Polities whatever.

And he farther proves his faid Position by the following Arguments.

1. Because, & Moraexial, πλείσον μεν νέμεσι τῷ Βελτίσω, δευτερον δε τῷ μετ ἐκείνον, &c. Monarchy, for the most part, prefers to places of Honour, Trust, and Government, such as are most Deserving; Whereas in Democracy, there is little regard had of a Man's Merit, either as to his Honourable Birth and Descent, or as to his acquired Vertues, Prowess and Learning: But with the Democraticks, the chief qualification, is, Riches and Popularity; for if a man be of Potency to carry on a particular Faction, then He, being the the People's Darling, shall be promoted, though he be otherwise a very Ignoramus as to State-Affairs.

2. Because Monarchy is (a) the mildest, the justest, and most equitable Form of Government, impartially distributing justice to every Man: An honest and peaceable Man, may, in all probability, expect justice to be

Mo-

ક્કે-

ng A-

the ost-

er'

oft

IĽ,

re ra-

n's

ui-

g: ief

y;

(a) 'And un't if negoregy notify, if Indiaregy, dirains ar authe relevour, som me faor est erds 'Ardels yvaim negotixen t vir mannor if normals diavoiais, if nartidinais (nter areoner, &c.

done him fooner in this Form of Government, than in any other; for it is easier to please, and to obtain the savour of one single person, as in Monarchy, than to gain the placet of a various, clashing Multitude, as in Democracy.

3. In Monarchy (b) the King has (b) OI Side none to Emulate or Envy, for he is it mayapxis are supreme, and therefore above all Am- Excorres or bition: All is his own, and for him of anim, to envy the prosperity of his Subjects, well animously would be to envy his own happiness.

Whereas

The Prerogative

(2) Ev F'Ohigap Lais

To Tous Anhoneoticus,

Lià tàs Aegs opas autres photophas huhainoutas huhainoutas rois noivois, &c.

(b) Πλεονάκις αν πης αυτός ευροι Ιιαφερριένες, η κοινή βελευομένες, &c. Whereas in (a) Oligarchy and Democracy there are commonly great Emulations and Ambitions one aspiring to over-top the other; and ost-times thorough heats (b) and animosities, the publick Weal is neglected, and every one drives on his own private Interest, and seeks to save himfelf, to the ruine of the Commonwealth. Wherefore upon these Considerations Nicocles rationally urged that no Form of Government could better secure the Common-wealth from Intestine Broils, and from Foreign Invasions, than that of Monarchy, which could, at pleasure Muster up Forces, wage (c) War, and carry it on vigorously, to the effecting its desired ends. And to confirm this his Opinion, he brings instances of several Common-wealths, especially that of the Carthaginians, who, in time of War, for the better success of their Assairs, did invest some single person, such as Hannibal, with Kingly * Power, during their Wars.

as a

pro

(c) Καὶ χὰρ παρασκευασαδαι δυνάμεις, τὸ χρῆθαι παύταις, τὸ
τὰ λαθείν, τὸ δρθήναι,
τὸς μεν πείσαι, τὸς
τὰ βιάσαδαι---μᾶλλον
αὶ Τυρανίδες πῶν ἄλλων πολιτειών οἶκί τ΄
εἰσὶ, &cc.

* Παρά πον πόλεμον βαπλευομένας, are iok

ery

pri-

im-

011-

011-on

In-

up

ind

to

CES

ar-

r,

TS,

25

And he instances also in that of the City of Athens, The Modals and Toescar, which of all Cities (after their Rebellion) most hated Monarchy, yet, even Athens constituted some single person Generalissimo, and intrusted him with a Regal Authority; and at last when their Republick Assairs slew, malis Avibus, upon the wings of ill-luck, They chose Solon for their King: But, he being as great an Hater of Monarchy, as was Timon of Mankind, Resused their profer.

4. In Monarchy (fays Nicocles) State-businesses may more privately be deliberated and consulted upon, and therefore without discovery may more fuccessfully be managed to the Terrour of the Enemy, and to the great advantage of the Kingdom, than in Democracy; where, by one or other, the Secrets of State are frequently difcovered, and their Confultations, Votes and Relotves are made known, before they are ripened, or before they can be put into Execution; which has proved very fatal and detrimental to many Re-publicks. And

And here, by the way, we may note, that by some Wise men, it has been thought no part of National Prudence or State-Policy in our late House of Commons here in England, to Order every day their own Debates, Votes and Resolves to be publickly Printed: for by fo doing, They fomented the several Factions in the Nation, and exasperated the Disaffected people against the King and his Government, and more particularly against his Royal Highness the Duke of Tork: And which was worst of all, they (by their printed Votes) discovered and revealed, not onely their own, but also the King's, Secrets and Counsels, unto his Foes, as well as his Friends.

5. Nicocles (arguing as an innocent Heathen) draws an Argument to prove the Excellency of Monarchy above all other Forms of Government, from the Regimen of the Gods themfelves: λέγονται παλ τὸς Θεὰς ὑπὸ τῷ Διὸς βασιλεύεδαι,—-ἐ γὰς αν τῷ τε ἀυτῷ χεῷῶδαι τὰς Θεὰς ἔφαμεν, &c.

ver

nav

ru.

ed:

nt.

his

rk:

hey

ered

ds.

ent rehy ent, em-

For, the very Gods, whilst they were in a Free Common-wealth, could not agree how to govern the World, but did bitterly clash and wrangle among themselves: So that, at last, Necessity forced Them to chuse a King, who should be Supreme, and Monarch over all the other Gods: And the Lot fell upon Jupiter, who was immediately proclaimed Supreme Monarch over all the rest: And when this was done, then the World was peaceably Governed, and all things prospered as well as Heart could wish.

Wherefore, as Nicocles of old did, fo we at present may, rationally conclude, That of all the Forms of Government, Monarchy deserves the Supremacy.

CHAPA HI.

That all Kings and their Lawfull Heirs ought, by Right of Primogeniture, to Reign and Govern Successively, whether they be Morally Good or Bad, whether Insidels or Christians, Papists or Protestants.

-01

71

to

HAT Succession to the Imperial Throne ought to be by Virtue of Primogeniture, and not of Grace, will be the Task of the following Sections to prove.

SECT. I.

The Proposition proved by Humane Authority, of Heathens.

The Plato's time, Kings were, either Elective, κατα νόμον, according to the Law and Custome of particular Nations, Nations, as, & Xagandon, in Carthage. And as, at this day, in Polonia.

Or, they were, nava yous, Hereditary, according to Primogeniture, as in Lacedemon and (a) Macedonia: for the Lacedemons and Macedonians, were not onely for Kingly Government, but also for the due and regular Succession of their Kings in the right (b) Line. To the same purpose, Ælian informs us, scil. That (c) among the Grecians, their Kings reigned successively according to Birth-Right, and particularly Gelon in Sicilia. the Leuconian Kings in Bosphorus, and the Cypselidæ in Corinth. Though (as he reports) the Legal Succession of her

ad,

by and

the

gto

ions,

their Kings by Primogeniture, seldom ran farther in a direct lineal Descent than, and recyoviar, unto the third Generation; by reason of frequent Insurrections and bloudy Rebellions, in which too often some powerfull Tsurper or other mounted the Throne (even as (a) H N Banheia & Aanedaiport & Mane-Joria 1912 Av , &c. Diog. Laert. Plato. 1. 3.

(b) 'And yap nu @- yives notental the Basiheian, &c. ibid.

(c) Municousion the Store is Exposes, Stages in the Albert in the Team of the Assessment in the Assessment in the Assessment in the Assessment in the Kulennidin of Kocket in the Assessment in Oliver Cromwell lately did here in this Our Kingdom) and cut off the Right Thus Might, over-coming Right, turned the Stream of Regal Government out of its proper Chanel, and forced it to run ( at least for a while ) a by-way.

Nicocles, the aforementioned Emperour, strenuously defends his own just Title to the Crown, by virtue of his Birth-Right; when he affures the World, that he came to the Crown, not by Usurpation, nor by any illegal and finister way, but honestly,

(a) Ela zai- (a) and justly, to wit, by Inheritance THE THE THE DESCRIPTION OF THE PROGENITORS down ae no rear to his Father, and from his Father, ex νόμον, es immediately to Himself.

פוא פושון, או Sualus, no Sia rus if appis majorus, no Sia vor mariga, no si imaurir, &co. Hocrat. Nicocl. Orat. 3.

and

Inter Tha

Wor

SECT. II.

The Proposition;

That Succession to the Throne ought to be by Virtue of Primogeniture, and not of Grace, is farther proved by Divine Authority.

A S Humane, fo also Divine Authority speaks the same Truth,

That all Kings and their Lawfull Heirs, whether good or bad, vertuous or vitious, ought successively to Reign and Govern.

for 111-

WIL

of the ile-

tly,

nce

WD

ber.

18

T.

To this purpose, very pertinent are the Interrogatories, which Elihu put to Job, c. 34. v. 17, 18. Shall even he that hateth Right, Govern? And wilt thou condemn him that is most just? Is it fit to say to a King, Thou art wicked? and to Princes, Te are ungodly?

For the right understanding of which Interrogatories, it must be premised, That through gross mistake Elihu rashly concluded, that pious Job had unworthily repined at God's severe hand of Providence towards him; and therefore to convince fob of his supposed errour, does Elihu expostulate with him, faying, Shall they, who are Haters of Righteousness and Justice, by virtue of their Right of Succession and Inheritance, Govern and Reign over their Subjects, and that by God's own appointment? And what? wilt not thou, O vain Man! fuffer God himself, the King of Heaven and Earth, to govern, act, and doe, what feemeth him best, with his Creatures? But thou wilt presume to censure thy Maker, and say, He is not just in his Dealings with Thee?

0.3 A .... of

Surely! Reason teaches thee this Lesson, That if thou mayst not centure nor condemn an Earthly Prince, who possibly may bate Right; much less mayst thou censure and condemn the most just One, even God, who can never doe any unrighteous thing.

So that Eliku makes a Comparison between God and a King. And he thus argues à Majore, to wit, That if Kings ought not to be Censured nor Controlled by their Subjetts, but ought to Govern and Rule notwithstanding

ver

Rig Ge

Kin

CON

lere.

vith

ice,

eign

iod's

Wilt

him-

urth.

neth

But

Ma-

Dea-

this cen-

ince, auch

lemn

can rifon

d he

at if 100 but

with-

standing any supposed Irregularity of their Lives and Actions; Then much more ought Almighty God to Reign and Govern, according to his own Beneplacet, and no Man whatever, ought in the least to murmure at his Providences, though apparently never so thwart unto humane expectation: For, Shall even he that hateth Right, govern? and wilt thou condemn him that is most just?

The point of Interrogation in v. 17. Druß in Job. 787, Shall he? is altogether Affirma. 34. 17, 18. tive: and implies, that he who hateth Right, shall, and ought, however to Govern.

But the point of Interrogation in v. 18. Then, nunquid? Is it fit, to say to a King, Thou art wicked? or, to Princes, Ie are ungodly? is wholly Negative, and teaches all men this Loyal Lesson, scil. That, it is not fit, nor lawfull, for any Subjects, to say, their King is wicked; nor to revile and scandalize their Princes, by opprobriously affirming, that they want Grace, and are Ungodly, and that, therefore, they are unsit for Government. Non dicere Drussin loc. convenit, non honestum, non par est:

4 State It

doi

thi

an

wh

Fel

at

Th

It is not honest, nor meet, nor allowable, to say so to Kings, and Princes: For let them be never so bad, even Belials, Idolaters, as the word בְּלִיטֵל which we translate Wicked, in the Hebrew does signifie; yet, for all that their Idolatry, they ought to Reign and Govern.

Yea, this Truth, scil. That Kings and their Lawfull Heirs by Right of Primogeniture ought successively to Reign, is farther evidenced by our Saviour's Answer unto Pontius Pilate.

St. Joh. 18. 37. Pilate said to him, Art thou a King then? Jesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a King: to this end was I born, &c.

In which Answer, our Blessed Saviour afferts two Great Truths,

1. That be himself was truly and indeed a King, as Pilate had said.

2. That He was King by Primogeniture and Birth-Right, for, unto this end, to wit, That he might be a King, and might declare to all the World, the fame Truth, Was He Born.

Thus the Holy Fesus rationally urges and pleads his own Birth, as a sufficient Title to his Father's Kingdom.

dom, inasmuch as his Father was a King, and He was his First-born.

OW.

the

that

and

ings

it of

to im,

red.

this

this

ing,

,the ur-

is a

om,

Which Answer of Christ's, when Pilate rightly understood, to wit, that Fesus was indeed a King, but not of this World; and when he understood also, that, Fesus his being a King was no more prejudicial to Casar's Crown and Dignity, than was that internal Empire which the Stoick Philosophers attributed to every Wise Man: Now, when (a) Pilate clearly understood responso Pila-Jesus his meaning, then He went im- rus concepit mediately out of the Judgment-Hall Jesus sibi triunto the fews, and professed publickly buerir, non muto them, That he found in Jesus no fault gis imperio at all.

Romano obesse, quam id quod

Stoici Sapienti suo tribuunt, qui docent, solum Sapientem Regnare, veram fortitudinem patiendo maxime probari, &c. Grot. in S. Jo. 18.

SECT. III.

The Proposition, proved by the Unalterable Law of Inheritance by Primogeniture.

THAT all Kings and their Lawfull Heirs, whether good or bad, whewhether Beloved or Hated, ought fucceffively to Reign, is fully proved by the Ancient and Unalterable Law of Inheritance.

Which Law was, and still is, grounded.

1. On God's express Command. and so it is a judicial Law of God.

2. On Natural Reason, and so it becomes a positive Law of Nature, obliging all Nations, at all times, to the Observation of it.

Which Law of Inheritance by Primogeniture, we find recorded by Moses, in Deut. 21. v. 15, 16, 17. and it runs thus.

Inheritance.

If a Man have two Wives, one Be-The Law of loved, and another Hated, and they have born him Children, both the Beloved, and the Hated; and if the Firstborn Son be hers that was Hated, then it shall be, when he maketh his Sons to INHERIT that which he hath, that he may not make the Son of the Beloved, First-born, before the Son of the Hated, which is indeed the First-born: But he shall acknowledge the Son of the Hated for the First-born, by giving him a double portion of all that he hath, &c.

By

hi

is:

ing

fi

By this Law, it is undeniably evident, that the First-born should ever be the Heir of his Father, whether the said First-born were Good or Bad, Beloved or Hated.

un-

ld,

it

Mo-

lit

Be-

hey Beft-

to 10-n: he

1111

Co

And the Reason which God gives for that Law, is this, scil. V. 17. Be-Deut. 21.17. cause the First-born is the Beginning of his Fathers strength, and, therefore, the Right of the First-born is his, that is to say, the Right of Inheritance is his.

So that, this Law of Inheritance by Primogeniture is not onely a positive and judicial Law, made by God, binding the people of the Jews; but it is also a Moral Law founded on Natural Reason: And therefore, is for ever Obligatory, and at all times, Binds all Nations to observe and keep it.

For, if among the Fews, the Firstborn was therefore to Inherit, because he was the Beginning of his Father's strength:

Then, by the same force of Reason, ought All First-born Sons of all men whatever, to Inherit their Father's Substance, because, they all are the Beginning of their Father's strength:

And

And therefore,

The Right of Inheritance, is theirs. From which Concessions, we thus argue, to wit,

That if Succession and Inheritance be established upon the First-born in private Families, because of his Primogeniture:

Then by the same Law, the Right of Inheritance and of Succession unto the Crown, is for ever settled upon the First-born of Kings. For, the First-born of Kings are the Beginning of their Royal Father's strength: And therefore, the Right of the First-born, that is to say, the Right of Inheritance and of Succession to their Father's Throne, is Theirs.

And from this Moral Law of Inheritance by Primogeniture, it came to pass, that not onely the Jews, but also, all Civilized Nations among the

(a) Amplissimum vero dignitatus Gradum Primogenitus hæreditario jure sibi vendicat, &c. Epist. Indi. Japan. p. 145. Heathens, did preser their First born (a) Sons to be their Heirs; and particularly, the First-born Sons of their Kings to succeed and inherit their Father's Crown and Dignities; for Common and Natural

Fin

his

med

Fir

the

at 1

tho

doe

of

Th

any

Suci

an

tith

tural Reason dictated this to be the First-born's Right.

ZYS.

Hee

in right

nto

he

of

nd

rn,

į.

100

to 2=

he

alf be

17of

/11

And whenever (as fometimes) it did happen that some aspiring Domestick or Foreigner did attempt to put by the Right Heir from succeeding his Father, that then, War was immediately Commenced to defend the First-born's just Title to the Crown.

And it is to be noted,

That although oft-times God did use his own Prerogative, and did, among the Fews, set up and pull down Kings, at his pleasure, which no Creature, though never so great, ought to doe.

Yet, this is to be observed, that after God had once settled the Succession of the Crown of Israel in King David's Family, and particularly on King Solomon's Islue by Primogeniture; That then it was High Treason for any to put by the Lawfull Heir and Successour, although the said Heir was an Idolater, and never so bad, as to, either Faith, or Manners.

Nor may we forget the Chronolo- Allen Scripe. ger's Observation, Scil. That All who Chronol p. reigned in Judah after King Solomon,

they

they all were the Right Heirs to the Crown, except onely Queen Athaliah, who was of the House of Omri, and of the Tribe of Isfachar; She onely, by Usurpation, Fraud and Violence, stepped up into the Throne that did not belong to her, and she paid dear for it, for, the Divine Vengeance foon overtook her, and rendred to her the just wages of her Treason, which was Death; for, 2 Chron. 23. 15. they laid hold on ber and slew her, and set up foash (the Right Heir ) and then, all the people rejoiced, and the City was quiet (V.21.) after that they had slain Athaliah (the Usurper) with the Sword; and had restored Foalh, the Right Heir by Primogeniture, unto the Crown.

100

Ira

aft

200

tan

And although, for the fins of Solomon, Almighty God did rend away from the House and Lineage of King Solomon, ten Tribes, and erected a distinct King over those said ten Tribes,

to shew,

1. His own Justice against impenitent sinners.

2. To exert his own Prerogative, and to let the World know, that it is in his power alone to set up, and to Depose Kings, Yet,

Yet, God did not dis-inherit, for ever, the Right Heir of King Solo-mon:

For, although God did fet up a New Kingdom, and a New Succession in Israel, for the Reasons above mentioned, Tet, it was onely for a certain term of years.

And by limiting the Succession in Israel to a term of years, the Allwise God did clearly hint to all men, this Truth, to wit,

the

iah.

d of

lep-

not it,

ver-

ath;

the

ople

21.)

the re-

Pri-

010-ay

ing

di-

hes,

eni-

ve,

tis

to et,

That notwithstanding the Inter-Regnum's of Jeroboam, and of all the other Kings of Israel; that, however, still the Right of Inheritance, and of Succession to the Imperial Crown over all Israel, as well as over all Judah, still belonged to the Line and House of Solomon. And it so happened, that after God had sufficiently punished the House of Solomon for their Rebellions against his Divine Majesty; That then, according to his own Law of Inheritance, he restored the whole Kingdom back again to the Right Heir of the Line and House of King Solomon:

For, Josias the Right Heir of King 2 Kings 23. Solomon by Primogeniture, Reigned 24.

over all Israel, as well as over all Judah.

Tyl

may

Kin

Wh

Ell

a K

Vice

ple

Nor may we pass over in silence

s this Remark, Scil. That whenever any Rebellious Subyetts did depose and kill any King, whether in Judah, as did the Murinous Subjects destroy Amon King of Judah, upon the pretence of his bengan Idolater: Or, in Israel, as did Treacherous Zimri Murther his Lord

Elah, King of Israel:

Now, whenever any did thus difloyally attempt to depose and kill their Lawfull Prince, and did endeavour to prevent the Right Heir from enjoying the Crown;

Then, did God, by his wife and just Providence, so order Matters, as that the said Treacherous Attempters were ever Prosecuted for Traitors, and were deservedly Executed for their Treason.

And if any scrupulous person shall desire to be farther informed, for what Reason, it is not Lawfull for any People to Depose and Kill their Lawfull King, nor to Exclude the Right Heir by Primogeniture, from succeeding in the Throne, because of his Immorality,

Tyranny,

Tyranny, Idolatry, or because of any other pretended wickedness whatever:

The Reason is,

74.

ence

Sub-

ing,

uti-

of

be-

did

ord

dis-

heir

ir to

just

that ere vere

de-

hat

Peo-

leir

an.

lity,

Because Kings are accountable onely unto God, for their Faith and Manners, for their Principles and Practices, and not unto the People their Subjects: For, it is God, and not the People, who sets up Hereditary Kings and Princes.

And therefore They are to give an Account of their Stewardship onely unto Him of whom they received it.

Hence it is, That, although God may in his wrath Depose Kings for their Sins committed against Himself; Tet, the People may not Depose any King, for any Irregularities or Outrages committed against Themselves, whether upon their Persons or their Estates:

For, the King is therefore accountable unto God, because He is (though a King) Inferiour to God, being his Vicegerent. But the King is therefore unaccountable to his Subjects the Peoples because, He is their Superiour, being their King.

· Lia (i

And it is ever adjudged a thing preposterous and absurd for the Head to be accountable unto the Inferiour Members, for its Government.

It is very true, That both Reason and Interest speaks it to be the Duty and Concern of the Head to Govern and Manage the whole Body well, regularly and judiciously, for sear of a severe check and punishment from an higher Hand, to wit, from the Supreme Head and Governour of Heaven and Earth, and for sear the whole Body should miscarry, and be ruined thorough his ill Government.

But, however, if the Head will not doe his Duty, and Govern well, yet, the Inferiour Members may not take up Arms and Rebell, and, in their zeal for Reformation, cut off the Head, as a Delinquent: But in such a case,

It is the Inferiours Duty humbly to kiss the Rod, patiently to submit to Divine Providence, and pray, saying, O Heavenly Father! Thy will, and not Ours, be done.

And this, by the way, is worthy every Man's observation, scil.

That.

ran

to

int

gea

Al

cre

That, although God doth off: times raise up certain Rebels to be as his scourges to punish irregular Princes; and although it be just in God so to doe: Tet, it is High Treason for those Rebels to execute God's Decrees and Judgments upon such their Lawfull Princes, unless they have (as had Jehu) a special Warrant immediately from God himself, so to doe; which Warrant, no Man since Christ's Advent ever had, or can have in the days of the Gospel.

And therefore, it is Treason for any Subjects, upon the specious pretence of executing God's Decree and Vengeance, to raise War, make Sedition, to Depose and Kill their Lawfull

Prince.

Tead

afon

Juty

vern

re-

afe-

n an reme

and

Body

tho-

not jet,

take

zeal

d, as

it to

ing,

That,

Thus Absalom was guilty of High Treason, in making War, and in raising Sedition against his Father King David, and He Died for it: And yet, Absalom did onely execute God's Decree of Judgment against King David his Father.

In like manner, God raifed up Zimri to execute his Decree against the House of Baasha, and permitted Him to destroy his Master King Elah, the D 2 Son of Baasha; which Action of Zimri's killing his Master King Elah, is Condemned for an Act of High Treason, and was by the Loyal People punished as such, I Kings 16.20. And no better was Shallum's killing Zachariah the King:

For although Shallum had done no other in killing his faid Sovereign, King Zachariah, than what God aforehand had decreed should be done to the House of Jehu for his and their

Hypocrifie and Wickedness;

Tet, notwithstanding, Shallum's executing God's Decree, He was deservedly Condemned for a Traytor, and at length Vengeance seized upon him.

By these, and other Instances, which might be alledged, it is evident,

That Treason and Rebellion, although Commenced upon never so Religious a pretence, very seldom, if ever, went unpunished.

And therefore we Christians may pertinently urge in this case of Treason and Rebellion, what Christ alledged in that of Offences, Matth. 18. 7. Woe to the World, because of Offences,

for

bri

Zim.

Trea-

e pu-

And

ne no

afore-

s exe-

, and him.

ious a went

may Irea.

edged

Fences, for

for Offences will come; but Woe to them by whom the Offence cometh. So here. Woe to the World, because of Treasons and Rebellions: for Treasons and Rebellions will happen, as long as Touth are not duely Catechised, and men are not better and more Loyally Principled. But, Woe to those Men by whom Seditions, Treasons, and Rebellions do come: For, the Divine Nemesis will undoubtedly pursue, and over-take them, either in this World, or in that to come.

SECT. IV.

The Proposition proved by Reason, and the Common Sentiments of Religion.

DEason and Religion dictate it to be a thing absolutely sinfull and unlawfull for any Subjects whatever, High or Low (if they be Subjects) in Parliament or out of Parliament, to Depose their Lawfull Prince:

D 3 And

The Prerogative

The Bill of Exclusion un-

And that it is also unlawfull for any Subjects, by a Bill of Exclusion, or by any other Means, to put by the Lawfull Heir from the Crown, for fear (as was lately pretended) He should alter Religion, and so bring many Evils upon the Nation.

it u

100

of

Now, that it is utterly unlawfull and finfull for any Subjects to doe thus,

Reason dictates;

Because, to preclude a Lawfull Heir from the Crown, for sear of future Evils which may happen in his Reign and Government, is truly, Malitious.

I. To suppose a fault in the Right Heir, before there is one; and to Act upon such a Supposal, savours of the height of Malice and Disingenuity: In truth, so to doe, in our apprehension, is no better than to Hang a Man first, and then to Try him afterward.

Atheistical

2. So to doe, is to trust more to Man's Policy, than to God's Wisedom; more to Man's Care, than to God's Providence, for the prevention of suture Evils.

The Holy Scriptures affure us, that the Heart of the King (and of his Right Heir ) is in the hand of the Lord, Prov. 21. 1. and as the Rivers of Water, he turneth it whither soever he will.

But this late Fanatical Doctrine, of Deposing Kings, and of Excluding the Right Heir from the Crown for want of Grace; and for fear of future Evils that may possibly be done by Him,

Speaks the contrary:

for estion.

fear

y E.

and thus ,

Heir

vils

and ight

Act

f the

ity:

hen-

Man

re to dons;

Pro-

iture

that

the

For this their Doctrine avouches for a Truth, that the Heart of the King, and of his Successour, is not in the hand of the Lord: Or, if it be, that then, God will not turn it so, as to doe any

Good to the People.

And therefore, the People (especially in Parliament ) for the Good of the Common-wealth, ought to Usurp God's Prerogative, and take the Heart of the King and of his Lawfull Heir, into their own hands, and dispose of it, as they, the People, shall judge hest.

Now, What is all this, but in effect, not onely to Depose and Dethrone an Earthly Prince, and his Lawfull Heir, but also to Depose and Dethrone Almighty God himself?

Nay,

The Prerogative

Cri

COI

200

Sha

ur

M

te

Nay, What is it in plain English, but for the People to take the Reins of Government out of God's hand into their own, and to Rule the World according to their own exuberant fancies though to also would you wish.

Nay, What is it at the best, but to doe an apparent Evil, that a Contin-gent Good may come on it?

Which Principle is Antichristian. and Condemned for fuch by Saint Paul, who assures us, That they who maintain such an irreligious Tenet, scil. Rom. 3. 8. Let us doe Evil, that Good may come; Their Damnation is just.

And here it is to be farther noted, That if it be ( as has been proved to be) a fin for the Subjects upon any pretence whatever to Depose their Ring, and to Exclude his Lawfull Heir from the Throne for fear of any Evil that may happen through his ill Government ;

Now, if this be a fin,

Then to be sure, much more is it a fin, for any Subjects to endeavour, That a Law might be made to Difinherit the Lawfull Heir of the Crown,

Crown, upon the pretences aforesaid. For,

lin-

orld

erant

t to itin-

tian,

Paul,

lain-

scil.

ome;

ted,

d to any

heir

any is ill

it a

Dif-

the own,

1. To make such a Law, is truly to make a Law directly to oppose and contradict the unalterable Law of Inheritance, which fays that the Right Heir by Primogeniture, shall Inherit; and the other known Law of God, That He, who hateth Right, shall Govern:

And therefore, it was a notorious opposite to Sin, an Antichristian Act in the late God's Law of Shaftsburian-Associators, to move for a Bill of Exclusion of his present Royal Highness James Duke of TORK from Succeeding in the Throne (notwithstanding his undoubted Right thereunto by Primogeniture) upon a presumptive jealousie, that He would not be a Friend to the true Episcopal-Protestant Religion of the Church of England, as now, by Law, Established. For by this Attempt, they endeavoured to have fet up a New Law of Man, against the Ancient Law of God, which Commands (as we have heard already) that the Right Heir shall Govern, although he hate Righteousness, and although he be a Belial; an Idolater:

And the Law of God is so far, from either Deposing a Lawfull King, or Precluding the Right Heir, as that, it will not fuffer any Subjects whatever to fay, Their King is Wicked, or that, their Princes are Ungodly.

kn

The Cause of Civil Wars

2. To make a Law for the Excluand Sedition. Jion of the Lawfull Heir from the Crown, is to establish Sedition and Faction by Law. And it is not onely to cause, but also to perpetuate an Intestine and Civil War by Law; as our present most Wise and most Gratious King prudently and too truly urged in his late Declaration, giving that for one Reason, why neither in Honour nor in Conscience could He give his Royal Fiat unto that unnatural and irreligious Bill of Exclusion.

For, if such a Bill should pass into a Law, then there must inevitably follow a Bloudy, Civil War:

Which can please none but them, who delight in Bloud, and love to fish in troubled waters.

And which will be worfe,

The faid War will, in all likelihood, continue untill the longest Sword shall have carried all before it. And who knows, but that Might may once again overcome Right, as it did at Worcester Fight, and in the late Cruel Rebellion?

Now, Reason assures us,

from

tever

that.

xclu

the

nely

In.

our

tious

HOUT

and

into

V IOI.

em,

00d,

That upon passing the Bill of Exclusion into a Law, there most certainly will follow a Civil War; and that because,

There will be in the Kingdom, two Opposite, irreconcilable Abettors for the Crown, and their Adherers; such as.

1. The Right Heir, by Primogeniture, Excluded and his Party.

2. The Vsurper intruded, and his Confederates.

And both sides will plead a just Ti-

The Lawfull Heir, Excluded, will urge (and that most truly) his Right thereunto by virtue of his Primogeniture, according to the Law of God, of Natural Reason, and of Magna Charta:

And therefore to be fure, He will Fight, and that undauntedly, for the Crown.

On the other hand, the Vsurper will plead, and that not without Reafon, his Title to the Crown, by virtue of the New Law of the Nation, to wit, the New Statute of Exclusion, which has fetled the Royal Diadem upon his Head, and therefore He will not easily part with it.

Wherefore, no man need doubt but that the Vsurper will fight, and that floutly, to keep what by Law he has got.

Thus any Man (that has but half an eye) may (if he will) plainly fee, That, if the Bill of Exclusion should pass into a Law (as the Anti-Torkists so hotly desired) that then War and Sedition will be established and continued by Law.

And now, suppose this should ever happen to be (which God forbid:) Then the Great Query, and Case of Conscience will be, scil.

Qu. What Party or Side ought the Pious and Dutifull Subject to take and follow?

Ans. To

Ans. To deal plainly and faithfully in this Case, where Conscience and Religion, I mean Christianity, are so deeply concerned;

rper Rea.

tue

to fon,

an

nti-

We humbly conceive it to be the honest Subject's Duty in this case, rather to Obey God and his Law, and So, to fight, More Romano, Couragioully for the Right and Lawfull Heir by Primogeniture unjustly Excluded: This we ought to doe, rather than to Obey Man and his New Law of Exclusion, and so, to engage for the Vsurper, who Reigns and Governs not by Divine, but onely by Humane, Law and Appointment.

And we will Appeal to Conscience and Reason, Whether it be not safer to follow God and his Law, which cannot err, than Man who may err, and his Law of Exclusion, which does grofly err in the very Sanction of it; in that it manifestly opposes the above-mentioned Law of God, which Commands, That the Right Heir by Primogeniture should Reign and Govern, although He hateth Right.

Object. If it be (as it is, by all Anti-Torkists and Common wealths Men) objected, That the Law of the Realm (a) the autem is above the King, for that the Law

(a) Inseautem is above the King, for that the Law Rex non demade him King; And therefore (say bet esse sub in., sed sub they) the Law has a power to Depose Des, by sub the King, and to take away that Regal Leve, quia Lex facit Re. Authority which it gave him: As gem. Non est that Great (but to our thinking, Facenim Rex, ubi tious) Lawyer (a) Bracton argues: lun'as to non. And as is so often quoted from him, Lex, by c.

Bract. 1. 1.

C. 8.

And the very same Argument was pleaded by all the late Regicides, particularly by that Grand Regicide, Bradshaw the Lawyer, who had the Impudence to sit as Judge upon the Bench, and to pronounce that Diabolical Sentence of Condemnation upon his own Dread Sovereign, King Charles the First of Blessed Memory; and he palliated over his and their Horrid Treason with this colour of argument,

to wit,

That the Law was above the King.

tla

to ·

WI

trin

neg

Cal

en

Anti-

) ob.

ealm

Law

(lay legal

As Fac.

ues:

him,

hour

Was

par-

ide,

the

the

abo-

noqu

arles

d he

orrid

sent,

3.

fit

Ans. It is hoped, that all the Gentlemen of the Long-Robe will go on (as they already have worthily begun) to repair the Honour of their Noble Order, and that none of them will any more advise or plead for Treason, nor ever again deceive and feduce the filly, ignorant People with their specious and fallacious Arguments: But that they (who have been difloyal) will fuffer themselves, and their Touth to be better Disciplined in the Doctrine of the Church of England: The neglect of which, has too apparently caused some of that Honourable and most necessary Function, and their Clients, so grossy to err in point of Obedience.

But, as for the above mentioned Objection, it is already pithily Answered, by the King's Learned Sergeants at Law in Hilary-Term 1683, in their truly Loyal Motto,

A DEO REX, A REGE LEX,

God made the King, the King made the Law.

And therefore, very false and Antiferiptural are the forementioned Positions, scil.

I. That, the Law made the King.

2. That, the Law is above the King.

For, although, the Law of God indeed is above all Kings, and if they wilfully transgress the same, they are all accountable unto God, and unto God onely for the same;

Tet, in this Kingdom of England, no Statute-Law is, or can be, above the King.

And that because,

It was the King who first gave Life and Being to the Law of the Land:

The King by his Royal Affent made the Law (Salva Regia Prarogativa) to be what it is, to wit, a Law.

But the Law of the Land did not make the King to be what he is, to wit, a King.

For, the King was King before the Law:

And so, he became the principal efficient Cause of the Law.

And

An

in

Ri

na

初

And therefore, the King was before the Law, inasmuch as the Cause is ever before the Effett.

And it is to be noted,

Anti-

the

od in-

they

y are

land,

above

nd:

nade

not

s, to e the

cipal

That although the Law may (by Repeal, or other ways) be abolished, and dye,

Tet, in England the King never does, nor can, dye, as long as there is alive any Lawfull Heir by Primogeniture, though never so Remote.

Object. But most, if not all the Anti-Torkists, did, and still do urge, in favour of their Bill of Exclusion, the Statute of 13 Qu. Eliz. c. 1.

When a Law was made, to this purpose, scil. That it should be High-Ireason for any to affirm the Right in Succession of the Crown to be in some other than the Queen: Or to affirm that the Laws and Statutes do not bind the Right of the Crown, and the Descent, Limitation, Inheritance and Governance thereof. Whosoever shall, during the Queens Life, by book, or work written, or printed, expressly affirm (before the same be established by Parliament) that any one particular person is, or ought ought to be Heir and Successour to the Queen, except the same be the natural issue of her body, &c. shall for the first offence be a whole year Imprisoned, and forfeit half his Goods; and for the second offence shall incur the penalty of Præmunire. Polt. Qu. El. 13. c. 1.

This is the Act, and these are the words of that Act, which the Authour of Julian the Apostate, and all the Factious Associatours have so stiffly pleaded, in Justification of their Bill of Exclusion.

Ans. But, a little to undeceive the deluded People; and to tell the Truth, as far as we apprehend it;

The fo be the pr

ce

First, There was an Occasion, if not a Necessity, for such an Act in Queen Elizabeth's days; but there is none in these of ours.

And the Reason for it is this, scil.

Because in Her days, many, both Papists and Fanaticks, disputed Queen Elizabeth's Right and Title to the Crown:

Nor was it certainly known, who by Birth and Primogeniture was the Law-

Lawfull Heir of the Crown, after Queen Elizabeth's Decease, in case she should dye without Issue of her own Body.

And therefore an Att passed, Declaring two things, scil.

tural

first

and

be le-

ty of

the

thour

l the hiffly

Bill

e the

ruth,

if not

ueen

nein

both

ueen

s the

Law-

1. That Queen Elizabeth was by Birth and Primogeniture, the Lawfull Heir of the Crown.

2. That, whomsoever the said Queen and the Laws of the Realm should declare to be by Descent and Primogeniture her Lawfull Heir and Successour, That then, He or She so declared, should be acknowledged and owned for the Right Heir of the Crown; it being declared (as was said before) that He or She was the Right and proper Heir by virtue of Birth, Descent, and Primogeniture.

So that, the aforementioned Act of Queen Elizabeth does confirm the Right of Succession to the Imperial Crown of Great Britain, to be onely by Lawfull Descent and Primogeni-ture.

Secondly,

Secondly, But farther, If the meaning of that Ast of Queen Eliz. 13. c. 1. were otherwise, than we apprehend it to be, Tet, it is well known, that,

That Act of Queen Eliz. 13. c. 1. is Obsoleted, and out of Date, and was made onely for Queen Elizabeth's Reign, and therefore is of no force or validity in these our days;

And that because, in this our day, the Right Heir to the Crown by Descent, and Primogeniture, is well known:

For, if he were not well known, then, pray, what need is there of a Bill of Exclusion to barr and preclude the Right Heir from succeeding in the Throne; and that onely, as is pretended, for fear the supposed Right Heir, when once got into the Throne, should not Govern well?

From these Arguings, it is evident, That the above-mentioned Ast of Queen Elizabeth is out of Date, and does no ways affect these our times, in which there is (at least there need be) no dispute, who, at present, is the Right Heir by Primogeniture.

T

Vil

mea-

nd it

lt,

I. is

Was eth's

ce or

day, Def.

wn:

wn,

of a clude

1 the

pre-

Right frone,

ident,

d of

, and

mes,

need

And

And therefore, it cannot be ignorance; but, as we fear, right down Prejudice, not to call it Malice, in them, who are knowing in the Law, to urge, from that Act of Queen Elizabeth's, a Lawfulness to hinder, by a Bill of Exclusion, the Right Heir from Inheriting the Imperial Crown of England, which is his undoubted Right by virtue of his lineal Descent and Primogeniture.

It will not be impertment, here to add the Observation of some judicious Men:

How that, God never bleffed, either that Family, or that People, which have unnaturally dif-inherited the Right Heir.

And it has been observed by many, That, although the Law of this Our Kingdom does permit Parents to cut off the Entails of their Estates, from their Eldest Sons, when prodigal and vitious, or otherwise:

Tet, it has been observed,

That those Families which have taken that Liberty which the Law of the Land has given them, and therefore, have distinherited the Right Heir, That they never prospered or continued long, but by some evil Accident or other, they have been blasted in their Estates, or Reputations, and in few years have dwindled away into nothing.

And as thus the Curse and Wrath of God has pursued private Families, which have dis-inherited the Right

Heirs to their Estates:

So, much more exemplarily has the Wrath of Almighty God visited in a direfull manner those Nations and People, which have Rebelliously Deposed their Lawfull Kings, and have Disinherited the Right Heirs to the Crown.

And We, the Inhabitants of Great Britain, have had wofull experience of this Truth.

For, who does not Remember those sad Judgments which afflicted this Our Nation, upon the Deposition and Murther of the late Pious Martyr King Charles the First, and upon the Exclusion of the Right Heir to the Crown, even our present Dread Sovereign, King Charles the Second 2

And

to t

us.

COTT

And what? Shall we ever yield again to them, who Plot to bring down the fame, or worse, Judgments upon us, by Excluding the next Right Heir to the Crown?

nti-

lent

l in

l in

into

bof

lies,

ight

the n a

Peo-

osed Dis-

the nce

Our Mur-King

Ex-

vn,

And

God forbid! But rather, feeing We of this Nation are made whole, and do enjoy Our privileges and immunities, our peace and quietness; Let us therefore, Sin no more, by our Rebettion and Sedition, Lest a worse thing come unto us.

For, that wholesome Advice, which Christ gave to the Impotent Man in the Gospel, is very applicable unto England——

Behold, thou art made whole, Sin no more (by Deposing, or Precluding the Right Heir). lest a worse thing come unto thee.

E4 CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

That all Subjects ought actively to Obey their Natural and Lawfull Prince, in all things which be not positively against some known Law of God, although their said Prince be an Heathen, an Idolater, and Apostate, or never so Morally vitious.

HE Proposition, we shall endeavour to prove,

1. By the Law of Nature, and of Natural Reason, which enacts,
That the Inferiour shall ever be Obsequious and Obedient to his Superiour.

2. By the Authority of Sacred Scripture and Divine Reason, which Anathematizes all Rebellion, and the Authours of it.

3. By

Th

lig

- 3. By the Authority and Practice,
  - 1. Of honest, Loyal Heathens.

2. Of Christians,

ively

ings

and oral-

ll en-

nd of

eOb-

eur.

red

the

. By

Both { Primitive and Modern.

SECT. I.

The Duty of Obedience to Superiours, whether Morally Good or Bad, proved by the Law of Nature and of Natural Reason.

Atural Reason dictates, this Truth, to wit, That if a King has a Right to Command and Govern, then the Subjects have an indispensable Obligation upon them to Obey; for Precept and Obedience are naturally concomitant.

And as Father and Son, so, Prince and People are Relata secundum esse, not onely Relatives, but also Essential Rela-

Aristor. Polit. Relatives, whose very Essence as such, consists in a mutual Relation of the one unto the other:

So that, as no man can be said to be a Father, who has no Son; so, no man can be said to be a King, who has no Subjects:

And as all Sons are either Dutifull,

or Undutifull;

So, all Subjects are either Obedient, or Disobedient.

And as it is a Breach of the Law of Nature, for a Son to be undutifull; So, it is a Breach of the same Law, for a Subjett to be disobedient.

For, as the non-performance of the Father's Lawfull Commands, renders the Son undutifull;

So the non-performance of the King's Lawfull Injunctions, speaks the Subject Rebellious:

And whoever denies Obedience to his King, does in effect deny him to be King.

And this is to be noted.

That by the Law of Nature, All Children are strictly obliged to Obey their Parents whether they be Christians or Insidels, Good or Bad:

an

For in the point of Filial Obedience, no Child ought to Dispute the Faith and Religion, the Morality or Immorality of his Parents.

All that he is to confider, is that near, that effential Relation in which they stand unto him, to wit, that they are his Natural Parents;

s Such.

of the

aid to 10 has

edient,

Law

tifull;

w, for

f'the

enders

King's

ubject

nce to im to

, All

Obey

orifti-

For

And therefore, without farther difpute, They are to be obeyed.

And as thus the Son,

So also the Subject in point of Obedience to his Prince, is not to dispute nor question the Virtues or the Vices, the Religion or Principles of his Prince;

But folely to confider, that effential and indiffoluble Relation, in which his Prince stands unto him, to wit, That He is his Natural and Lawfull Prince;

And therefore, must of Necessity be Obeyed.

And we may argue farther, That the Law of Nature and of found Reason Dictates,

1. That all good Order ought to be kept.

2. That

The Prerogative

2. That Order cannot be preserved, if Inferiours shall Rebell and Resist the Commands of their Superiours.

cel

mo

A

tio,

on

from

mo

an

3. That all Disorder and Rebellion.

threatens ruine to the Whole.

Which Mischief to prevent,

The Law of Nature obliges every Being, within its own proper Sphear, to contribute its utmost endeavours towards the preservation of the whole.

These things being granted to be according to the Laws of Nature and Natural Reason;

It cannot, now, but wound the Heart of any understanding Man, whether Christian or Heathen, to see the Heel rise up and kick against the Head, to see Subjects Plot and Rebell against their Natural and Lawfull King, especially, seeing, all Rebellion is (as has been proved) no other, than waging open War against Nature her self: Nature having Constituted all things in a most harmonious Order, placing one Being before another, and strictly Commanding every Being to keep its own Station, and to act onely within its own Circuit, and not to move excentrically. And

And in truth, wonderfull is the excellent Governance of Nature; For, where there are Millions of Individuals of the same Species, there Nature ever makes One to move First; and all the rest, to move orderly and successively.

And this Natural Law of Regularity, and of Priority and Posteriority, is duly observed by all Moveables, when ther

Served,

bellion

every phear,

hole.

to be e and

d the Man:

io fee

ft the lion is

than

re her

ed all order,

and

g to 0116-

ot to And Animate, or Inanimate.

1. All Things Inanimate, such as the Elementary Particles, when they move Ascendent or Descendent, they All observe the Natural Laws of Motion, particularly, of Priority and Posteriority, and do All move Regularly one after the other, to prevent Confusion.

Natural Philosophy affures us,

That whenever there does happen the least Disorder and Irregularity among the Inferiour parts of Nature, that then to prevent a general Revolt and Fraction;

The Supreme Nature is Necossitated

to act feverely, and by force to reduce the Rebellious Particles into their af

Right Order.

And thus, formetimes, the Supreme Nature causes things to act and move quite contrary to their particular Natural Inclinations.

Thus, Water, fometimes is forced to ascend, contrary to its Natural Tendency:

And Air to descend, contrary to its Natural Propensity.

And all this is done to prevent (as was hinted before) a greater Rebellion and Rupture, and to preserve the safety of the Universe.

2. The Laws of Nature and Good Order are also duely observed by things Animate, although they be Irrational:

For they have their Superiours and Inferiours.

Gerson.

Tea, the very Beasts of the field, are said to Observe the Natural Law of Primogeniture: And in their Motions to put the Eldest foremost: And when this Order is broke, by some Rebellious and Disorderly Juniours, then

com-

commonly, there happens among them a fierce Combate.

reduce their upreme.

1 move

ar Na-

forced

al Ten-

to its nt (as

Good

d by

oe Ir-

rs and field,

awof

otions

when belli-

then

Thus, as the Poet notes, there is Rex Gregis, a King among the Herds of Cattel, and the Flocks of Sheep:

And it is well known, that the Lion is commonly called the King of Beasts.

Nay, not onely Beasts, but also Infests, such as Bees, have their King;

And Bees have not onely a King, but Virgil in the praise of them, says,

—Regem non sic Ægyptus, & ingens Virg. Georg.
Lydia, nec populi Parthorum aut Medus 4.
Hydaspes
Observant, &c.

That the Bees are more Observant and Obedient to their King, than ever were the Egyptians, Parthians, or Medes to their King.

And therefore a Bee in the Gothick Language is *. Bi-eju, quasi penes unum, * Minshen. which tignifies a Company, incorporated, under one Head.

The Bees have their Laws of Government which they punctually obferve.

And

The Prerogative

And one of their chiefest Laws, is, That all the Subjects of their Commonwealth, should carefully and dutifully, in their fixed courses, wait upon, and guard their King, at home and abroad:

And therefore, they will never move without a word of Command, nor fly in fwarms without their King; but most Loyally wait his Royal Pleafure; and whilst His Majesty is solacing himself in his Palace, they, like so many Life-Guard Men, most durifully hover about, and attend the Door. And it has been observed, That, if, through too long Attendance, they have grown faint and weary in their Service;

Tet, they will rather humbly fall down Dead at the foot of their King, than defert their Station, and hazard His Majesty's safety.

And if any Enemies, such as Wasps and Hornets, shall at any time assault their King's Dominions; They all unanimously take up Arms in desence of their King, and will fight on his behalf, to the last Breath.

mo

me

aws, is,

mmon-

n, and and a-never

mand,

King;

s fola-

, like duti-

d the

erved,

ary in

ly fall

King,

Walps

assault

l una-

nce of

is be-

And

65

-Rege incolumi, mens omnibus una est.

Whilst their King is safe, nothing can afflict them; but they are all cheerfull and unanimous; the most critical eye cannot discern the least Discord among them.

But on the other hand,

Amisso, rupêre fidem, &c.

Virg. ibid.

Their King once (unhappily) lost, they are all in a tumult, their Government is dissolved, and every one does what he pleases, for their Laws expire with their King:

So that, they all, by stealth and plunder, get what they can. And like so many unruly Banditi, they seldom give over pillaging, untill they have either lost their lives, or luckily listed themselves in the Service of some other Neighbouring Prince.

F

For

Por, such is the Nature of a Bee, as that he can never live quietly, without a King.

By these instances, it is sufficiently demonstrated.

That all Beings whatever are Obedient to their Superiours, and do keep good Order: And that Most, if not All Living Creatures, which are guided onely by the Light of Nature, do not onely preser Monarchy above all Governments, but also injoin strict Obedience thereunto, according to the Laws of Nature.

And what? Shall onely Man (of all the Creation, except Devils) walk diforderly, and be found Rebellious and disobedient unto God, and unto his Natural Prince, contrary to the Law of Nature and sound Reason?

For shame! Let it never be said, That Man, the Glory of the Creation, is in a Conspiracy with the Fallen Angels, against God and the King.

SECT. H.

The Duty of Obedience to Superiours, whether Morally good or bad, Christians or Heathens, proved by Authority of Divine Reason and Scripture.

but also the Law of Nature, but also the Law of God, and Divine Authority Command Loyalty and Obedience to be shewn unto all Kings, whether Heathens or Christians, Good or Bad;

And declare also, That it is the Subjests Duty not onely to Obey them, but also, heartily to pray for their pro-Sperity.

ently

Obe-

кеер

if not

e, do

e all

a 0-

o the

of all

k dif-

is and his.

Law

ation.

n An-

CI.

Thus the Patriarch Jacob did not onely doe humble Reverence and Honour unto King Pharaoh an Heathen, but also gave him his BENEDIC-TION: for, Jacob Blessed Pharaoh, Gen. 47. 7.

אילום שאילוים, that is, Jacob saluted Munster. him, with Prayer for his Welfare, and Drus. Ains. with Thanks for his Bounty.

And the Holy Prophets, who of all men were most free from Courtship

F 2

and

and Flattery, they, especially the Prophet Daniel, did Honour and Worship, even Heathen-Kings, and frequently faluted them with this Pathetical Option,

VIVAT REX.

O King, Live for ever!

Which is all one with,

God save the King.

In like manner St. Paul did Honour Noble Festus the Roman Governour, and King Agrippa, who were no Christians.

Tit. 3. I.

And the same Apostle exhorts Titus, Bishop of Crete, to put All Men in mind of being subject to Principalities and Powers, to obey Magistrates (whether Christians or Heathens, good or bad) and to be ready to every good work.

And in Hebr. 13. 17. the Fews are Commanded to obey all that had Rule over them: Which Rulers over them in the State, were the Roman Emperours

and

and Deputies, who were, at that time, inveterate Enemies to Christianity.

Our Blessed Saviour himself Commands all Men (Christians especially) to give unto Casar what is Casar's, as well as to God, what is God's: And the Law of God and of Man tells us, that Honour and Obedience is Casar's due, therefore it must be paid.

And St. Paul, writing to the New-converted Romans at Rome, charges them to be subject to Casar, and the Higher Powers; And he gives this Reason for the necessity of their Obedience, to wit, Because there is no power but of God; and that, Whosever Rom. 13. 1,2. resisteth the Powers, resisteth the Ordinance of God; and he that risisteth, shall receive to himself Damnation.

And the very same pious Doctrine of Loyalty does St. Peter teach, I Pet. 2.13. Submit your selves to every Ordinance of Man, for the Lord's sake, whether it be to the King as Supreme, or to Governours, as unto them, which are fent by bim.

Pro-

Nor.

fre-

MOUT

and rifti-

s Ti-

en in

ities

whe-

d or

good rare Rule

min

and

And v. 18. St. Peter adds, as the Whole Duty of Man, this Injunction,

Fear God Honour the King

Fear God, Honour the King.

There.

Thereby (according to Beaufrons) plainly intimating unto us this excellent Truth, scil.

* Beaufrons, c. 8. p. 89.

"That if we will not peaceably fubmit to every Ordinance of the King, as to things Lawfull, but become Mutinous and Rebellious; then, notwithstanding our high profession of Religion, and of fearing God, we neither, Fear God, nor Honour the King: for as God is ever to be Feared, so the King is ever to be Honoured.

in M

11

fe

Unto these Instances of Holy Writ, pleading for Obedience to Kings, and to the Supreme Magistrates, we may add that Loyal Decree, which the Reubenites, and Gadites, and the half Tribe of Manasseh made: For they all were so zealous for Obedience unto Joshua their Supreme Magistrate, as

Josh. 1. 18. that they Decreed, That who sever Disobeyed Joshuah's Commands, and would not hearken unto his words, in all that he commanded, he should be put to Death.

The Prophet Samuel terms Rebellion no better than Witchcraft: So that, according to him, Whosoever Rebells, has forsaken God, and is gone over, Volunteer, to the Devil, and is carrying on his works of Darkness.

ons)

cel-

the

pro-

ing'

nor ever

r to rit,

and nay

Ren-

all

, as Dif-

ould

that

to elli.

cor-

Nor may we pass over in silence, that smart check which the Heathen Sanballat gave (though most undefervedly) unto Loyal Nehemiah, saying, What is this thing that ye doe? Nehemania, Will ye Rebell against the King? Will ye Rebell? that is to say, in the Negative; No, surely! ye will not offer to Rebell against the King: For, your fewish Religion (which ye say is the onely true Religion in the World) teaches you otherwise, and instructs you better, to wit,

That although the King be, in your opinion, no other than an uncircumcifed Heathen, and (as you believe)

an Idolater ,

Tet, for all this, ye ought (according to your own Religion) not to Rebell against him.

From these Proofs in Canonical Scriptures, we may rationally argue, and conclude with the truly Loyal Archbishop Laud, and others of the Church of England, scil.

4 "That

The Prerogative

Heyl. in Vit. Archb. Laud. 66 P. 310.

"That all the Commands of a King, which are not, upon the first Interence and Illation, contrary to some

" clear passage of the Word of God,
" or to some evident Sun-beam of the "Law of Nature, are precifely to be " obeyed.

SECT. III.

The Proposition;

That All Lawfull Kings, whether Morally good or bad, ought to be obeyed, proved by the Authority and Practice of honest Heathens.

Itherto we have heard the Divine Oracles amply declaring the Subjects Duty peaceably to Obey their Lawfull Kings, and their Succeffours, whether Papists or Protestants, Heathens or Christians, Good or Bad. The very same Truth and Duty, we find urged, and confirmed by the Authority and Practice of mere Heathens, who were guided onely by the glimmering mering Light of their Natural Reason, even such as they, did not onely teach, but also practise Loyalty and Obedience to their Lawfull Princes.

V

Hefiod discoursing on the Benefits of Kingly Government, tells his Reader, that

Kingn

ome

God.

fthe

o be

Mobey-

and

Di-

ring

Obey

ucces-

ants,

Bad.

we dens,

-Oi de vu daoi Hefiod

Harres es autor ogion diane houra Jejusas %. "I Jejus Ingo, &c.

unto the King the People do all, most dutifully, look, waiting for his Word of Command; They being fully assured, that, seeing their prosperity is his happiness; He, therefore, will order all things right, according to the Rules of Justice.

And when King Jupiter was Dethroned by the Rebellious Titanes, then the Loyal Party mustered up their Forces, and humbly tendering their Services to him their King, They all unanimously entred into a solemn Vow, that they would fight his Cause, and never sheath their Swords, untill

'Ρυσόμε θα κεάτος ύμον εν αινή δηϊοτήπ, Μαςνάμενοι Τιτήσι ανα κεαπεράς ύσμίνας, &c. they they had vanquished all his Enemies, and had restored him to his Imperial Crown and Dignity.

Theocritus enlarging himself on the Praise and high Commendations of King Ptolemaus, says, He was negge-elsat And ear, the most happy of all men, not onely in that He (being King)

Theocr.

Αίδοίο Βασιλή Β., &c.

was the care and charge of the Supreme God:

But also he was happy, in that

--- 'Ανάσσονται Πτολεμαίω,

All his Subjects were Obedient and Conformable to his Government, and were not factious and tumultuous, nor given to Seditious Talk, nor to Idleness.

—Λαοί δ' દેવγα περιτέλλησι έκπλοι,

But every man kept his own Station, and peaceably followed his own buff-nefs.

And

nies,

erial

1 the

is of 290%

(be-

Su-

Conwere

M, ion, but-

And

And at last, he religiously concludes his Panegyrick on the said King with this pathetical Epiphonema,

Χαΐρ ω ναξ Ππολεμαΐε,

Theorr. e'-

God Save King Ptolemy.

Phocylides in his Admonitory Poem,

-Πίτιν έν πᾶσι φυλάδειν,

Cautions all men, especially Subjects, that are under an Oath of Obedience, punctually to keep their Faith and Allegiance: And that, Because,

Triboenov suzien Ords, &c.

God hates a perjured person.

It is Remarkable, That Fabius Maximus, after he had been Consul five times, became Obedient to his Son Suessa, who was promoted to that high Office. And when some jealousie arose, that He had contemned the Authority of his said Son, for that, upon his first approach into his Son's Presence, Presence, He did not bow the Knee, nor did him that Honour and lowly Reverence which was due to his Confulary Dignity. Fabius presently corrected the mistake, assuring his Son the Consul, that He did not forbear to give him due Honour and Worship, out of contempt, (a) but onely to try, Contempsi, sed whether He so young, knew how to experiri volui, maintain the Magnificency and Gransulem agere: deur of a Consul, or did rightly undernecignoro qued stand how to treat Him, not as his rationi debea. Natural Father, but as his most dutitur, verum full Subject; for, he did openly declare, That the Publick Honour and Veneration due to the Supreme Magistrate, ought ever to precede all private Duty 1. 2. c.2. §. 4. to Parents.

The Senate of Rome, to shew their Abhorrency of the treacherous Affassination committed on the Person of their Emperour Julius Casar, in publico luctu, did most solemnly bewail that horrid and execrable Fact, in a publick Lamentation: And, Damnati Omnes, Condemned to Death all the Plotters and Actors thereof: And although the faid Regicides fled from Justice, yet the vengeance of God pur-

fued

ally

W

(a) Non ego, inquit, Fili, Jummum imperium tuum publica instituta privatâ pietate potiora judico. Valer. Max.

nee,

W/v

Con-

cor-

Son

er to rander-

his

lare,

era-

uty

heir alli-

oub-

1 2 nati

al-

0177 111fued them all; So that, not any one of them died a Natural Death; But (a) some of them perished at Sea, others were slain in Battel: Some casu- casu peritt---ally knocked on the head, and others pars naufrakilled themselves, with the very same lio, nonnulli Dagger with which they had woun-femet eodem ded Cæsar.

gio, pars praillo pugione. quo Cæsarem violaverant, interemerunt, Gr. Sueton. Vit. Jul. Cas. S. 84.

And Æmilius Probus gives us another Remarkable Instance of the Divine Hand punishing Treachery and Disloyalty in the Person, and Complices, of Mithrobarzanes, who perfidioully revolting from Datames his Lawfull Prince unto the Pisidians, who were at that time Datames his open Enemies, was, at last, upon a right understanding of his perfidiousness, furioully assaulted by both (b) Parries, (b) Proditoand miserably destroyed; by whose to hostes pro-Death, Datames was freed from the fligavit, & Traytor, and from his Enemies the quod ad fuam Pifidians.

rat cogitatum,

falutem convertit : quo neque acutius allius Imperatoris cogitatum, neque celerius factum usquam legimus. Cornel. Nep. Datam. p. 132.

The Prerogative

It is recorded by Quintus Curtius for the everlasting praise of the Grecians, that it was their natural wont, to Ho-

(a) Nam haud facilè dictu est, prater ingenitam illi genti erga Reges suos venerationem, quantum bujus utique Regis vel admirationi dediti fuerint, vel charitate slagraverint, (gc. Quint. Curt. 1. 2. nour and Obey their Kings.

(a) And when Alexander their King was (beyond expectation) recovered from a desperate sickness, occasioned by a fall into the River Cydnus, All his Loyal Subjects (especially his Soulditer !

Wet

mo

W hor

3

mi

ers) were so over-joyed at the good news thereof, as that they presently made their humble Addresses to His Majesty, heartily Congratulating His happy Recovery. And as a farther expression of their Loyalty, and of their great joy for their King's safety, they did also multiply their Thanks and their Bounty to Philip the King's Physician, for his Faithfulness to the King, and for his great Care, and Cure, of Him. Nor may we forget Isocrates his high Eulogium's of the said Grecians.

How that, they always preferred the Publick Good of the Kingdom before their private Interest, and that they did not desire so much to be Rich and Great, as to be Honest and Use-full

us for

ians.

Ho.

ings.

ex-

rom

alio-

iver

Sub-

eldi.

ood

atly

His

His ex-

heir

they and

hy-ing,

lim.

red

be-

hat

full to the Common-wealth: And that they did not covet to leave any better Patrimony to their Children, than that of Honour, Loyalty, and Renown.

Nay, they never contended (a) one (a) 0% to 8 with another, but when they strove, exer winis who should be most serviceable to his AMABE GIAGH-King and Countrey. And so faithfull mas is TONIwere they to their Prince, and to all mis, sase is men, as that their bare word was of moisure weis more value, than other mens Oaths, and whites, The in after-ages.

דוע אונו מואד מור Jada munos-

סוץ, אבכ. הבסדופטוב אף שונושים דכוב אליץיטוב, או עוש דכוב לפאפוב, אל דמוב อบาวิทเลเร สิราธิบาระ และภอง เนเนยงอเง, ที่ าสาร สำสาของร, &c. Dionys. Halicar. in Vit. Ilocr.

And Nicocles pressing the Subjects Duty to Obey their Prince, draws his Argument à Commodo, from the great Benefits they all would most certainly reap thereby: for then, they would abound in Wealth and Riches, and would enjoy peace and quietness at home, and would become a Terrour to their Enemies, and be the Envy and Emulation of their Neighbours abroad. And as (b) the Kingdom of the Persians, so that of Nicocles's would flourish and prosper more by the Subjects Love and Obedience towards their Prince, than by any prowess of Arms, or by any other politick Contrivances whatever.

(b) Tहरा एकेर उर्वह, मार्रीय म्हार Περσών δύναμιν απαντες 19 σμεν τηλικαύτην το μέγεθ 2 32 Svoke nv, ह नी के मों परिष ลังอิงลัง อุยุองทอง; ลังภ์ อีก μαλλον των αλλων την Ba-னிவ்வு ரமன்ன,&c. Hocr.Ni.

do 1

at

rul

Ho

vec

Kin

Lo

Ni

For, as Diogenes Synopeus (a man generally morose, and averse from Mo-Diog. Laert. narchy ) Mount TE de Siv Totatelar Elvas The en noque, &c. faid, that the Life Vit. Diog. and Essence of Civil Polity, consisted in Honour and Good Order; for fo does noone signifie in Diogenes his fense.

And Tacitus, to the same purpose. (a) Pereunte urges the Necessity of the Subjects Operium etiam bedience to their (a) Prince, beintercidit, & cause, otherwise, there would soon tw, queri sin. be a Dissolution of all Good Order. and of the whole Frame of Government. l. 1.

> Now, one way to preserve the Government established, and to continue the present peace and welfare of the Kingdom, (as Nicocles adviseth) is, not onely to obey the King, but also to obey and to honour All that are in Authority under him; for whoever (a) envies obseguio imsi ubi imperagulis liceat. Tacit. Hift.

(a) envies and maligns the King's Friends and Prime Ministers of State. do malign the King Himfelf, and do really strike at him thorough their hdes: Whereas, were they

(a) Mi e Joyoite rois mas દ્દાર જρωτεύεσιν, લેમાં લ્મામ-र्वि है, में मल्यु के प्रशाह के imas autes wape portus eg-10 हे जेचा काड़ जर्द् दूरता. का-มผีง ชีเยอีย deiv, x กนลัง, aσυτράν κ) ο Βασιλεύς.

truly Loyal, they would Love and Honour those, whom their King Loved and Honoured.

urish

Love

ince.

t by

hat-

man

Mo-Ewas

Life

ifted r so

pole,

10.

foon

der, ern-

Go-

is,

e in erer

And whereas many drank the King's Health, and talked big of their Loyalty, and highly applauded their King. But yet, fays Nicocles, true Loyalty (b) (b) The Eurona wir meds consists more in Works vuas en res Espois end in than in Words; more in 2015, &c. Mocr. Nicocl. Obedience, than in Talk.

SECT.

an an annaise a fige

forthink literated August Andron Libraria none is Orrator than Gel, to Performance of Writing a conference

eller a deller och

· . . . . . .

Light Too to the first of the first

SECTIVE

The Proposition;

That all Subjects ought actively to Obey their Natural and Lawfull King, in all things which be not positively against some known Law of God, although their said Prince, be an Heathen, an Idolater, and Apostate, or never so Morally vitious, proved by the Authority and Practice of the Primitive Christians.

187" SICE 3 THE Doctrine and Duty of Obeying All Lawfull Kings, whether Heathens or Christians, Good or Bad, in all things that are not positively Evil, was constantly taught, and conscientiously practifed by the Primitive Christians, both Clergy and Layity.

A course of the first of the first of Ignatius, the second Writer after the Apostles, declares, that All Kings are to be honoured, because they reprefent God the King of Kings: And as in Heaven none is Greater than God, so 198

me

P

ve

m

bey

al-

01

by

the

or or 091-

re-

10

170

on Earth, none (a) is Greater than (a) Tipay the King.

ράρ Βεσιλέως τις παραπλήσι & Aρχισ, &c. Ign. Epift. Smyrn.

So says also Tertullian, Colimus Imperatorem ut hominem à Deo secundum, & solo Deo Minorem, &c. (b) That (b) Chin suthe Christians honoured and worship per Imperatorem non sit ped the Emperour (who was then an niss solution De-Heathen) as a man second to God, us, qui fecit Imperatorem, and less onely than God.

and so Saint Chrysoft. Baonheus paip κορυφη κο κεφαλή των οπό της γης έςτη άπάντου. Chrysoft in Rom. 12. 1.

And Justin Martyr Apologizing for the Primitive Christians, who were accused of Sedition and Disobedience against the Emperour, and his Government, assures the Emperour Antoninus Pius, that the aforesaid Accusation was very false, and a mere Calumny cast upon the Christians: For, he challeng'd the whole World, to prove, that ever any true Christian was either Seditious in Words, or Factious and Rebellious in Astrons.

(a) El Mun- And therefore (a) if nothing of Nov & Xou not that nature could be proved against inappetent them, it was unreasonable upon suraxionable xooy of mises and false reports to punish the sha phung no Innocent.

นร ส่งอิกูผ์สนร ส่งใหตั้ง, &c. Just. Mart. Apol. 2.

And Justin farther pleads,

That the Christians were so far from opposing their Emperour or his Government, as that their Religion obliged them to assist and to fight for Him, and to endeavour to out-doe all others his Subjects, (who were not of the Christian Religion) in promoting His and his Empires safety and prosperity: And this they did, out of dread and fear of the true God, who hated all Evil Doers, particularly such as were Seditious Traytours, and Malitious (b)

(a) Άρωρελ δ. Seditious Traytours, and Malitious (b) εμαχοι πεὸς Murtherers of their Lawfull Prince : οἰρίνην ἐπιδν Αll which Diffurbers of the Publick πάντων μᾶλ- ρεαce, the Christians God would severemen, οἶ ταὐτα ly punish either in this life, or in that δοξάζοων, οίς λαθθών 3ι- to come.

δν κακόερρον, η πλεονέκτην, η επίβαλον, η έναιετον, αθύνατον είναι, η ξκασον επ' αλωνίων κόλασον, η σωτηρίαν κατ' άξιαν των πράξεων περεύεθαι. εί γαρ δι πάντες είνθεωποι ταῦ τα έγιωσκον, ακ αν τις πλε κακίαν περες ελλίγον ης είτο, γινωσκων πορεύεθαι επ' αλωνίαν διά πυρός καταθκον, άλλ εκ παντός τε όπο συνείχε η εκόσμει άξετη, &c. Just. Mart. Apol. 2.

And

Lei

cu

And the faid Emperour Antoninus Pius was so well satisfied with the Dutifull and Loyal Behaviour of the Christians, as that he openly declared, That He verily believed the faid Christians did (according to their Religion) abhor to plot any thing against the Roman Emperour, or his Government, and that they would chuse to dye, rather than offend either their God, or their King; And therefore He wrote Letters unto the Governours and Deputies of Asia, and other places, prohibiting them, to profecute the Christians any more upon the account of their Religion.

m

Go-

0b-

or

of

ing

pe-

ere

6)

: 93

ere-

hat

1,1%

ta*

THE

And to the same effect wrote Marcus Aurelius Antoninus Philosophus unto the Roman Senate, advising the said Senate not to persecute the Christians, but rather to esteem them their Friends. For, fays he, the Christians (a) casting themselves down on the ground, prayed fervently, not onely for him the Emperour, but also for all his

(a) Pi Javres pap éaures èni riv pir, êx 'uner éus movor idensanar, and à à iner re nacorne seare duans, &c. Jult. Mart. Apol 2.

Army: And by the prevalency of their prayers, He and all his Host were miraculously delivered from a dreadfull Famine and Drought under which they laboured: And the Christians God, & in hyves, whom he knew not, by their Intercession, did not onely free Him and his Army from their imminent danger, but also gave him a complete Victory over his and the Senate's Enemies, by striking them down dead, under foot, with Fire and Hail-stones from Heaven.

(a) Καὶ τε μηθέν τέπων αδικών, ύμως Μάρπυρες, κελεύοντες μὰ ὁμωνοῦν πεός ὑμῶν λοιπὸν, ἐξέτασην ποιησαδαι εία, δογμάπων τής πεὸς ὑμῶς ἢ τὸν ὑμέτερον ὁἰκον ἢ τὰν Βασιλών σπαδῆς ἢ ὑπακοῆς, &c. Athenag. Legat. p. 4. Athenagoras in his Embassy for the (a) Christians, Appeals unto the Emperour Aurelius Antoninus Himself, to justifie the Christians as to their Obedience unto his Royal Person, his Noble Family, his Laws and Imperial Government; for he knew full well that the Christian Religion taught them to believe, "Avan Sev Thir Basidelar eldings", &c. That all Kings had their Authority from above, and therefore were to be obeyed: Nay, he knew that the Christians did not onely honour and obey him Aurelius Antoninus the Father; but they also Revenues

red

إبلإ

ter

mig

COL

ans

SAC

ing

pr

18

(a) Fire wer

red and Honoured Aurelius Commodus the Son and Right Heir of the Crown, and therefore they prayed jointly for

THE EPONS THE

(a) Father and Son:

he

em

m-

HS,

00

to

eW

Yea, the Christians prayed, that the faid Emperour's Son, and his Son's Lawfull Heirs might succeed in the Throne ( for, fays he, that was a most. just and righteous thing ) and that his and their Kingdom might grow greater and greater, and (b) that all things (b) Tra rais might happen to His and His Heirs uirnaod nacontent, and that they poor Christi- Tests, nare to ans) might lead under Him, and his find Nymose Successours, a fober and quiet life, see- mi Banneiar, ing they all did cheerfully observe his enisoning Commands.

auguery of x appir vuin TOUTEN STE

χ เย่อง γγνομένων, λαμβάνη, τέτο δ' έςι κ) προς ύμων, όπως πρεμον η πσίχου βίον διάχριμεν, αὐτοί δε πάντη τα κεκελευσμένα πες-Di une vomeeroi us. Athenag. Legat. pro Christ. p. 40.

Theophilus Antiochenus putting a difference between God and the King, expresses himself to this effect, Scil.

God we Adore, the King we Honour and Obey as a Man fet over us

The Prerogative

(2) Timbow by (a) God, and by so doing, we fulto Best with a fill the Will of God.

τυχόμεν Ο ύπερ αυτέ. Θεω Νε τω οντως Θεω, η αληθώ περσημον ο είδος επ ο Βροπλεύς, ύπο αυτέ γιρονεν τον ε Βροπλεύς τημα, τημα ευνοών αυτώ, ύποτα οποιεν Ο αυτέ ευχόμεν Ο ώπερ αυτέ το ποιεώ, ποιεώς το πελλημα Θεω. Theoph. Antioch. ad Autol.

Tatianus the Assyrian adviseth all Christians to be Ovedient to their King. And (fays he) if the King requires of his Subjects Tribute and Custome, they

ob

upo

on 1101

100

to

(b) Teografie must pay it; if he Commands (b)

obers tensive their Obedience and Service, they must be Bathers, yield it: But if he Commands things exerv, he absolutely unlawfull, such as to deny revers it is the true God, then they must chuse exerge, my der rather humbly and meekly to suffer how will the fest, than actively to obey his up to der it felf, than actively to obey his up to der it.

Dai κελευόμεν & , & ποιδήσομαι, τοθνή Σομαι δη μάλλον, iva μη Jedsus y άχά-LIT & ἀποδείχδω, &cc. Tatian contr. Græc.

Tertullian writes (as did Justin Martyr) that the Primitive Christians lived so exactly innocent and inossensively, towards all in Authority, as that their Enemies could find no fault in (a) them, except that of their Re- (a) Intelligere ligion: And therefore although they scelus aliqued were persecuted even to Death, yet in causa esse, it was not for any Disobedience to sed Nomen, their Emperour, and Governours, nor ratio anula for any Moral wickedness and vice operations infound in them, but onely for the Name Tertul Apol. of Christian.

bri.

ing.

es of

they (b) ult

ings deny

ffer

his

ixi

s li

len-

quod quadam

St. Cyprian most earnestly exhorts cyprian ad all the Clergy and Layity, dutifully to Demetriaobey the Emperour, and by no means, upon the account of Religion, Oppreffion, or of any other pretence whatever, to raise any Tumults or Sedition, or to make any Resistence, no. not in case they were by the Emperour and his Judges Sentenced to dye for their Religion. And for their Pattern and Exemplar, they should take musin feee flus Him their Diocesan, who preached and abditos conpractised nothing more than Piety to- rum Pro-Conwards God, Loyalty towards the Em. sulis Carthaperour, and peace and quietness to the unis, audituri Commonwealth, and (b) was ready to abenquid Im-

(b) Expestaperatores fu-

per Christianorum Laicorum & Episcoporum Nomine Mandaverint, & dicturi quod ad horam Dominus dici voluerit : Vos autem pro Disciplina. quam de mandatis Dominicis à me semper accepistis, & secundum quid, me tractante, sepissime didicistis, quietem to tranquillitatem tenete; ne quisquam vestrum aliquem tumultum de fratribus moveat, &c. Cypr. Epift. 83. $ 2.

dye,

dye, onely he patiently waited the Emperour's Pleasure and Order for his Martyrdom.

of Kingly Government, in opposition to the Gnosticks and Valentinians, who affirmed, that all Civil Magistracy was of the Devil's, and not of God's Institution;

He tells his Reader, that,

Cujus jusu Homines nascuntur, hujus

jussu & Reges constituuntur.

As God onely made Man, so God onely constituted and made Kings: And he gives a very good Reason, wherefore God made Kings, and Instituted the Secular Powers, and Commanded strict Obedience to be render'd to them, to wit,

(a) Quoniam Because, when Man fell and Apoenin absistens statized from (a) God, He and his Poin tantum efin tantum ef-

ferabit, ut eti-

am consanguineum Hostem sibi putaret, de omni inquietudine, de homicidio, de avaritis sine timore versaretur, imposuit illi Deus humanum timorem ut potestati hominum subjecti, de lege eorum astricti, aliquid assequantur justitia, de moderentur ad invicem in manisesto positum gladium timentes, dec. ad utilitatem ergò Gentilium, terrenum regnum positum est à Deo; sed non à Diabolo, qui nunquam omnino quietus est, imò qui nec ipsas quidem Gentes vult in tranquillo azere, dec. Irenz. 1.5. c. 24.

Was

70

ers.

to

the

Who

Was

nujus

God

igs:

om-

ten.

po-

rna-

bomiunum

nglagnum

s eft,

rena

ble: And therefore to prevent farther disorders among Men, God wisely Ordained Kings and Governours, who by strict Laws of Morality, Justice and Equity should restrain, and reclaim Apoltatized Mankind, and as God's Vicegerents, should reward Vertue, and punish Vice: Thus, says Ireneus, God was the first Authour of all Order and Government, and not the Devil; who was the first Incendiary of all Sedition and Rebellion: And that God fet Kings over the Gentiles for their good and profit, to govern them, to protect and defend them from all Injuries, Tyranny and Oppressions.

Clement Alexandrinus, urging from Scripture many necessary Duties upon his Scholars, when he treats of Government, περί πολιτείας— Απόδοτε Clem. Alex. Padag. 1.3.

ra Kaloaca Kaloace.

He briefly tells them their great Duty of Obedience to the Secular Powers, in our Saviour's words, Give unto Casar the things that are Casar's.

Celfus the Heathen, that he might, with greater colour of Reason, oppose the spreading of the Gospel of Christ,

Does

Does object, That (according to Christ's own saying) Christians cannot be Obedient to Emperours and Kings, nor to any in Civil Authority: And that because, Christ (says He) has taught them this Factious Lesson, soil.

That they cannot (and therefore, ought not) ferve two Masters, such as, God and the King: For, says Christ, they will love the one, and hate the other. &c.

And therefore from thence does Celfus plead (though very fally)

that Christianity lays (a) a foundation for Resistence of the Civil Powers, and for Rebellion against their Lawfull Princes, inasmuch as (according to their Lord and Master Christ's words)

Vic

08

St. Matth. 6.24. No man can serve two Masters; for either he will hate the one, and love the other: or else, he will hold to the one, and despise the other.

To this long Harangue and Objection, Origen replies, & sáoteos & pound êm rois vonoceou rá roiave, &c. that

(a) Tજાર જે હંદ હંદમાં, ફ્લંગ-અદ સંગ્લા ભૂઅમોમ, જાઈમ સંગઠના-ફ્રેમિટ્ર માં સ્વાન મેરે, મો લે ગઈ-ફ્રેમિટ્ર માંમ જાઈ મહા મહા મહા તેમ એક હેમ જાઈ, &c. Orig. contr. Cell. 1.8. the above-mentioned words of Christ do not in the least countenance Rebellion:

For, says Origen,

Although there be many Gods and many Lords, yet there is but one, Θεδς Θεῶν, God of Gods, who is, Βασιλευδντων, King of Kings, and all the other Gods and Kings are Subordinate to him the Supreme.

And therefore, to obey lawfull Kings on Earth, is to obey God in Heaven, for the King is God, that is, God's Vicegerent and Representative upon Earth:

and

rity:

He)

Mon,

fore,

brift,

he o-ence

and their nuch

Lord

ords)

etwo

the?

will

ber.

jec-

CWH

that

the

So that, in the point of Obedience, God and the King are but One Master, onely the one is Invisible, the other Visible; the one God by Essence, the other God by Deputation and Office:

And as God and the King are One Master, so they both are carefully and duely to be Worshipped and Reverenced; onely the One with Divine, the Other with, Civil, Honour and Obedience.

And, άγωνιζόμενοι δη διὰ τῶν πεὸς Orig. contr.

Θεὸν ἐυχῶν— τῶς τᾶ δικαίως Βασιλεύ- Celí. l. 8.

οντος, &c.

Ας

As we are always to pray unto God, so we are always to pray to him, for the King, that God would bless and prosper Him in his Government.

Origen pressed due Obedience unto Heathen Kings in all things Lawfull: But if any thing Unlawfull was Commanded, then he advised all Christians, not to obey Actively by doing what was Commanded; but Passively, by fusfering patiently whatever should be inflicted upon them.

And because Origen was of opinion, That it was a sin, for any Christian to fight under the Banner of an Heathen Prince; Therefore it was, that He dissuaded the Christians from going into the Wars, and from fighting under their Lawfull Emperour, which was Origen's great failing, and gave Celsus occasion to Revile the Christians, and to Stigmatize them, as Stubborn, Disobedient and Seditious:

However, although Origen was against the Christians fighting under an Heathenish Banner;

de

La

LL WALL

Arris File

Yet He himself did, and advised all Christians, to pray (a) for the Em- (a) 'E, 70 perour's fatety and success in all his neurow n-MOV Kat Lawfull Wars and Enterprises. สมาชิ าชิ ที่วายμονικόν έυχαί

υμών, &c. ibid. p. 427. Gregory Nazianzen in his Oration to Julian the Collector of the Emperour's

Tribute, exhorts all people to keep their own Station, and not to walk disorderly, for God is a God of Order and Peace:

unto

him.

vern-

unto om-

oing

vely,

ion,

in to

then

dif-

into

Was

as

diti-

sa.

L an

Yet

And therefore, fays he,

Μη κρίνετε τες κριτάς, μηθε νομοθετείτε

TOIS VOLLO SETTLIS, &C.

That it is not Lawfull for Subjects to Censure their Governours, nor to prescribe Laws and Rules to their Legislatours: AM Engisos en h Endhon rates Αδελφοί, εν ταῦτη μενέτω, καν ή της neerrov & azi &, &c.

But every man ought to be content with his own condition, and ought to live and act peaceably in his own private sphere, although possibly he may deserve to be promoted higher:

And thus, as he would not have the Layity to Usurp the Jurisdiction and Office

The Prerogative

call

25 ike

ing, very mit

ed

Jul Na

dic

Fai

(#2

Office of the Bishops and Priests, lest they should make a Schism and Faction in the Church:

So neither, would he have the Subjects to entrench upon the Prerogative of their Superiours, lest they should cause Sedition and Rebellion in the State.

And therefore, upon the whole, he concludes, that all Christians ought to imitate their Lord and Head, Jesus Christ, who render'd to God what was God's, and to Casar what was Casar's, Naz. ad Ju- such as, 70 72205, 700 96500, &c. Tribute, lian. Orat. 9. Fear, Honour and Obedience.

And when the said Gregory Nazianzen was accused by the Arians, as now a tagaxav all savew as now, &c. for a Factious, Troublesome and Seditious person: Gregory cleared himself of that Scandal and soul Aspersion, by appealing to his own Doctrine and known Conversation, He having ever been, o the eighths Beaseway, a constant promoter of Obedience to the Government, and of peace in the Commonwealth.

Gregor.
Presb. Vit.
Naz.

And although, this Holy Father, Greg. Nazianzen, wrote very Satyrically left

Elion

Sub.

tive

the

he he to he felus

Was

ars.

bute,

ian-

571-

for

tions of

by

and

ever fant

very-

MON-

her,

tyri-

callentissimus. Lodovic. Vives, in Civ. Dei, l. 5. 6. 21.

Yet this is to be noted, that whilst Julian was living, and was the undoubted Right Heir to the Throne, no body opposed his Succession, notwithstanding many Enormities committed by him, before he was Crowned Emperour: And all the time that Julian Reigned, the aforesaid Gregory Nazianzen lived quietly and peaceably under his Government, and never wrote one fyllable (as we know of) against him: But on the contrary, Gregory did, upon all occasions, shew the said Julian (when living) due Honour and Reverence: And when Gregory Nazi, Greg. Naz. anzen had occasion to reflect upon orar. 9. Julian's miscarriages, He did modestly Vail all over, with a Disonicor Siwmissources, Let us Bury them in silence. Though

Though, it is too true, and must be acknowledged (in our opinion) as a great fault in so good a Man, as was Gregory Nazianzen, That after fulian the Apostate was dead, he did too undutifully, not to say, too inhumanely, expose His Dread Sovereign's Naked-oras. 3. ness to the whole World, & und you is in worse Language than ever Michael the Arch-Angel brought against the Devil, when he Jud. Ep. v. 9. disputed about the Body of Moses.

But yet, this is to be said for Gregory (as was hinted before) that he wrote his Investive against Julian, not as an Orator whilst Julian was Living; but, rather, as a Passionate Historian, after he was Dead.

St. Augustine pleading for Obedience to Kings and Emperours, Answers the Grand Question, scil.

Quest. Whether a Christian may Lawfully obey an Heathen Emperour, and may harmlessly Fight under his Banner?

Ans. He determines the Controverfie in the Affirmative, contrary to Origen; Hall

as as

lian

un-

ely,

ed-

gov

lage

ngel

ire-

he

not ng;

ian,

ence

ers

nay

ONF,

Ver-

en ;

gen; and declares, That it is the Christian Souldiers bounden Duty to Obey his Lawfull Prince, although he be an Heathen, and to fight faithfully and couragiously under his Command; yea, this the Christian ought to doe, although the Grounds and Occasion of the faid War be probably unjust on (a) chim ergo (a) the King's fide.

Vir justus, si forte sub Rege homine etiam facrilego militet, reste possit, illo jubente bellare civica pacis ordinem servans; Cui quod jubetur, vel non esse contra Dei praceptum certum est, vel utrum sit, certu'n non est, ita ut reum Regem faciat iniquitas imperandi, innocentem autem Militem oftendat ordo imperandi. Aug. contr. Faust. Manich. l. 21. c. 75.

And his Reason for it is this, scil. Because, God will punish the King or Emperour for Commencing an unjust War, but He will amply reward the innocent and dutifull Souldier for his hearty and fincere Obedience unto his Lord the King.

And elsewhere St. Augustine adds, Rex semper Honorandus, si non prop- St. Aug. ter se, attamen propter Ordinem, &c. quest. 35. That a King is always to be Honour- Test. ed, if not for his own personal Excellencies, yet, for his Kingly Order and Dignity.

And H 2

And in his most Incomparable Book, de Civ. Dei, He informs the People, That although Nero was a Tyrant and the worst of men as to his Personal Immoralities; Cujus fuit tanta Luxuries ut nihil ab eo putaretur virile metuendum, &c.

* Talibu tamen dominandatur, nist Summi Dei Providentia,

1.5. C. 19.

Yet, because Divine Providence * di potestas non had raised up the said Nero, and made him to be Cafar, their King and Governour, therefore the People ought to &c. Civ. Dei, Obey Him.

And St. Augustine glancing on the Question, scil. Whether Dominion be founded onely in Grace?

He fays, that in Heaven it is so; for no man can inherit a Throne of Glory, but onely He that is truly Gratious and Holy.

Ibid. c. 21.

But on Earth, it is not fo; for, Regnum Terrenum, & piis & impin, sicut ei placet, cui nihil injuste placet.

God disposes of these Earthly Kingdoms to Good and Bad, according to his own pleasure, for Reasons best known to himfelf.

And therefore the Subjects are obliged in Duty to obey Nero, as well

the.

the

gr qu Dei,

Vis'

alt

tim

the

for rer

ole,

nal

XU-

me-

e*

ade

to

he

of 10-

or,

113,

ola-

顺-

ob.

as (a) Augustus; Cruel Domitian, as (a) Qui Regwell as Kind and Mercifull Vespasian; num dedit Auther Apostate and Idolatrous Fulian, as Neroni, qui well as the Pious and Orthodox Con-Vestassianis, stantine; for the one as well as the orbital stantine; for the one as well as the orbital stantine; for the one as well as the orbital stantine; for the one as well as the orbital stantine stantine stantine stantine.

& qui Constantino Christiano, ipse & Apostate Juliano. Aug. Civ. Dei, 1.5. c. 21.

Optatus the Famous Bishop of Milevis taught the same Doctrine of Loyalty and Obedience, declaring, that all Kings are to be obeyed:

And although Kings should sometimes Command things which are in themselves unlawfull to be Commanded, yet it may be Lawfull for the Subjects in many cases, actively to perform the said unlawfull Commands of their said Kings.

For thus,

The pious Jews, when peremptorily Commanded by Antiochus to furrender up their Bibles to be burnt by the Officers, They (though with great grief of heart) readily obeyed.

H 3 And

And the aforesaid Optatus blames very much the Emperour for impofing so ungodly a Command, but he (a) Peccatum highly (a) applauds the Obedience of imperantis & the said dutifull and Loyal Jews.

populi, cum do-

It is most certain, that the Popes of Rome, before they became Rebellious to the Secular Powers, humbly and peaceably obeyed their Emperours, and that not onely in things Lawfull, or Indifferent, nor onely in things Secular and Civil, but also in things that have seemed, in the Popes own judgment, to be in their own Nature, unlawfull; and, which is more, the Pope of Rome, has obeyed the Emperour, in things Spiritual and Ecclesia-stical, as well as Temporal.

As for Instance,

When Mauritius the Emperaur had made a Decree, that no Souldiers should be admitted into any Monastery, and sent the said Edit unto Pope Gregory, surnamed the Great, to be forthwith published by Him and his Clergy.

The

thr

Pop

Em

OW

Bo

10

Te

nes

po-

he

of

sof

1048

15.

W.

ngs

ngs

Wn

ire. the pe-

iers

Ale-

be

his

The faid Pope obeyed the Emperour's Commands, and immediately caused the same to be dispersed throughout all his Diocese and Ecciefiastick Dominions; And the said Pope Gregory gave this Reason for his fo doing, to wit, * Quia erat Subjectus ejus Justioni- * Gregor. Magn. l. 2.

Epift. 61.

bus. Oc. Because He (though Pope) ought to be subject and obedient unto the Emperour's Commands, though in his own judgment, He conceived the faid Editt to be in it self unlawfull, and prejudicial unto many persons, as well Heyl. in Vit. in reference to their Spiritual, as their Laud. p.311. Temporal Benefit.

THE RESERVE OF THE PARTY OF THE

Bet was the state of the state STATE OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY

Markey and Committee of the Committee of Apple of the parties of the second of

and the contract of the contract of the contract H 4 SECT.

SECT. V.

Modern Authours for Obedience to Princes: Of two Sorts.

- 1. Some Conditionally; as All Recufants.
- 2. Some Absolutely; as All Prote-

The strain of ages of the second of

I. Modern Authours, who are for Conditional Obedience.

A Mong our Modern Writers, we find none, who deny the King's Supremacy, and by so doing, Declare themselves to be Recusants and No Protestants.

Among such Modern Authours, we find none that are for Absolute Obedience to Princes, whether Good or Bad, Papists or Protestants: For, All the Recusant and Anti-Protestant Writers, such as the Papists, and the Classical, and the Congregational Authours, according to their several Principles, the and tha

Su

Pr

di

to 710 fu

fe

are onely for Obedience to Princes and the Civil Magistracy, with a Condition and Limitation.

Thus the Papists * strongly urge O- *Tho. Aquinas Sum. 22a.

quast. 10.
a. 1. R. Bel-

larm. Prafat. in Barcl.

But it is onely in Temporals, and Concil. Trid. that too, with Submission to the Pope's sesses. XI.

Supremacy.

to

MC-

for

We

ng's

No

We

or

All

ri-

urs,

Mes,

But if a King shall meddle with matters Spiritual and Ecclesiastick, without the Pope's Laws, the said King shall be Excommunicated, and all his Subjects discharged from their Allegiance, and from paying Homage and Obedience to him their King.

In like manner Calvin and all the Classical Divines, commonly called Presbyterians, write much for Obedience to Kings, and to All in Autho-

crity

But it is with a Jesuitical Proviso, to wit, That their Kings and Governours be Godly: And it is also with submission to their Presbyterian Classis, and Consistorian Power, which they set above the King, especially in matters Spiritual and Ecclesiastick.

And

And not unlike, do the Congregational Divines, commonly called Independents, talk much for, and preach up, Obedience to the Civil Magistrates. But it is with the same forementioned Proviso, scil.

That their Magistrates be endued with Grace, and do Govern the People according to God's Word, and with a submission to their Independent Congregational-Churche's Power and Cenfures.

As is plainly, and fufficiently proved in a late Book, intituled

BEAUFRONS.

Chap. 2. Presbyterians, No Prote-

Chap. 3. Independents, No Prote-

Chap. 6. p. 56, 57. "Impossible for "Papists and Dissenters, whilst

" they are true to their own Prin-"ciples, to be Obedient and Good

" Subjects to the King.

Unto which Book and Chapters, above mentioned, we refer the Reader.

bea

Po

Pe of

th

67

Gi

Inde.

each rates.

oned

dued

eople ith a ngre. Cen-

pro-

rote-

rote-

e for /hilft Prin-

Good

3400

And

And by the way, we cannot but Advise all young Men, especially the young Divine, whether in the University or elsewhere, to be very cautious how he reades, and understands, and follows the Modern Authours, especially Calvin, Beza, Peter Martyr, Rolloc, Polanus, Frederick Baldwin, Cursellaus, &c. Hugo Grotius, de jure Belli & Pa. For they, and others of their Party, together with the Papists and Fefuists, plead and argue stiffly for Obedience unto the King and the Secular Powers; but yet, they All have their several Mental Reservations, and cunningly distinguish * between the King's * Rolloc. and Person and his Power; And in the close Fred. Baldw. in Rom. 13.1. of their arguings, they All declare it to be Lawfull for the Subjects to Refift the King and the Civil Magistrates. even with force of Arms, in Defence of the true Religion, and in the Suppression of Tyranny and Oppression: Thus (a) Si Rex Grotius himself (a) asserts. reipsa etiam jicere moliatur, quin ei Refisti in hoc possit non dubito, aliud est enim imperium, aliud habendi modus, qui ne mutetur obstare potest populus. Grot. de jur. Bel. & Pa. l. 1. c. 4. §. 10.

tradere reg-

This they all affirm to be Lawfull, contrary to Primitive Christianity, and directly contrary to the found and Loyal Doctrine and Practice of the Protestant Church of England:

And therefore, it will be of little force and validity to bring the Testimony of Modern Writers to confirm the Doctrine of Obedience to Princes, both Good and Bad, Papists and Protestants, unless it be that of the Episcopal Protestants, who own and plead for the King's Supremacy,

And therefore are the Onely Protestants in the World.

and the second However, to gratifie the Reader, we will present him with a few Sayings of some of the Anti-Protestant Modern Writers, as to the point of Obedience to all in Authority.

Jo. Calvin. Serm. 131. on Job. 34.

0.477

-37 F. S. L. 1 1

Fa. Calvin in his French Comment and Sermons on Job, c. 34. v. 17, 18. has these words, as they are Translated by Arthur Golding, out of French, into English, to wit,

" We must Obey and Honour all in " Authority, because they are not set up

:wer

lia.

" up by chance, or hap-hazard, but by "Gad and his Providence.

"And if God fets over us a Tyrant, " it is for the punishment of fin, and " it is the Duty of all men meekly " to bear their punishment, and to "take it as a Scourge of God; and if ". we Refift, we strive not against " Mortal Men, but against the Heavenly Judge, p. 675.

nity,

and

ittle

firm

nces. Pro-

Epif. lead

rote-

der.

Say-

tant

tof

nent

13, ich,

lin

To the same purpose writes Peter (a) Martyr, how that all men ought (a) Dua funt to be Obedient to the Civil Powers; subjectiones, and if any offend, then it is the Magi- una Politica strate's Duty to punish the Offenders, subjiciuntur according to the Merit of their Delin. omnes homiquency.

nes: qui si quid offendevint in Leges, expectant à justis Magistratibus carcerem, mulclam pecuniariam, exilia, mortes, de externas poenas, dec. Pet. Mart. loc. Com. de Magistrat. p. 1018. S. 10.

And, speaking against the Pope's Supremacy, he adds

That a King (b) has power to De- (b) Quamvis pose a wicked Bishop: But no Bishop Rex positi rewhatever has power to Depose a King, movere inutialthough wicked. Epz copum, non tamen Episcopus potest vicissim Regem, si peccaverit, dejicere, egc. ibid. S. 12.

Listens

And Polanus is of opinion,

That all Hereditary Monarchs ought
(a) Si abolu- to Reign and (a) Govern, although tam Monarchiam habet, they should be Tyrants, and that the eff in side eins People ought to persevere on in their perstandum,
etiamsi Tyrannut evalit, eriamsi nihil minus præstet quam quod ex officio erat Regum & Princi-pum, dec. Polan Syntag. 1. 10. c. 62.

II. Modern Authours, who are for Absolute Obedience to Princes, whether Morally Good or Bad, Orthodox or Erroneous, Papists or Protestants.

Gerhard treating on the Questi-

Q. Whether, He ought to Reign and Govern, who has Apostatized from the true Religion?

A. Answers in the Affirmative:
And positively asserts, "That (b)

(b) Si jure And positively asserts, "That (b) Successionis
juxta Leges "He to whom the Crown belongs by fundamenta-

les & palla conventa, ad eum pertinent Imperii Fasces qui à verà Religione alienus est, tum propter Religionis diversitatem non est privandus suo jure, quia Religio & Ecclesia non abolet Politica ac jura Politica, &c. Gerhard de Magistratu Pol. Sell. 106.

Right of Succession, ought to Reign " and Govern, notwithstanding his Apostacy and Alienation from the true Religion; And that, because Diverfity of Religion deprives no man of his Right.

To this Foreign Authour, we will add the Judgment of the Church of England, as now Established, and as it is delivered to us in Her Homily of Obedience, Second Part.

Princi.

for ices,

Bad , pilts

eign irom

sby

The words of the Homily are these:

Scil. " All Subjects are bound to Hom. of Obeobey them (that is, Kings and Ma. Part. p. 72. "gistrates) as God's Ministers, yea, although they be evil, not onely for Fear, but also for Consciencefake, &c. Our Saviour Christ himfelf, and his Apostles, received many and divers injuries of the unfaithfull, and wicked men in Authority; yet " we never reade, that they, or any of them caused any Sedition or Rebellion against Authority; we reade oft, that they patiently suffered all troubles, vexations, flanders, pangs

The Prerogative

" and pains, and Death it felf obedi-" ently without Tumult or Resistence. "They knew, that the Authority of " the Powers, was God's Ordinance, " and therefore, both in their Words " and Deeds, they taught ever Obedi-" ence to it, and never taught, nor " did, the contrary, &c. " did " We may not obey King, Magi-" strates, or any other (though they " be our own Fathers) if they would " Command us to doe any thing con-Ibid. p. 74. " trary to God's Commandments. In " fuch a case, we ought to say with " the Apostle, We must rather obey "God than Man. But nevertheless in " that case we may not in any-wise " withstand violently, or Rebell a-" gainst Rulers, or make any Insur-" rection, Sedition, or Tumults, ei-" ther by force of Arms, or otherwise, " against the Anointed of the Lord, " or any of his Officers: But we " must in such cases patiently suffer " all wrongs and injuries, referring " the judgment of our Cause onely to God.

And And

A

11 t

" g

"ir K C

- 6

" it

" 21

" 3

" A

" 1

aga

P. 2

2

of

Pri

And elsewhere, our Church says

"What shall Subjects doe then? shall Serm. against they obey valiant, stout, wise and Rebellion, Part.

good Princes, and condemn, diso-

" bey, and rebell against Children, be" ing their Princes, or against undif-

" creet, and evil Governours?

" God forbid!

y of nce,

they

on-

with obey

sin

vise

1 2-furei-

ord.

We

"For what a perillous thing were it to commit unto the Subjects the judgment, which Prince is Wife, and Godly, and his Government good,

" and which is otherwise? as though,

" the Foot must judge of the Head:

"An enterprize very heinous, and "must needs breed Rebellion. Serm. against Wilfull Rebellion, 1st Part. p. 279.

This is, you fee, the Pious and Loyal Doctrine of the Protestant Church of England, which she received from Christ and his Apostles, and from the Primitive Christians, concerning the Subjects absolute Obedience to Kings, and All in Authority, whether Good or Evil.

And

And the faid Loyal Doctrine was ever preached and practifed by the Protestants in England, we mean those, who owned the King's Supremacy in opposition unto Popery and Fanaticism; for there never was, nor are, any other *Protestants in the World, but such, who protest for, and defend the * Beaufrons,

King's Supremacy.

This Doctrine of absolute Obedience was practifed, as well as preached, by the Bishops Martyred in Queen Mary's days, and by the most Reverend Jo. Whitgift Archbishop of Canterbury, and by the most Reverend William Land late Archbilhop of Canterbury, who suffered Death by the late Rebels, for nothing more, than for maintaining this Primitive Doctrine of absolute Obedience to the King. And fince, it has been urged upon the Peoples practice by several Learned Men of this our Church; particularly, by Dr. Faulkner in his Christian Loyalty. And by the Right Reverend Seth, Lord Bishop of Sarum, in his most Learned Sermon before the King on Nov.5.1661. against Resistence of Lawfull Powers.

Some of his Lordships words are these

"If harsh Administration of Power P. 60.

" will exempt Men from Obedience;

" at that time, when Claudius, or

" Nero was Roman Emperour, why

" should the Holy Ghost move St. Paul

" to write to the Romans, scil. They Rom. 13. 2.

" that refist, shall receive to themselves

" Damnation?

the

y in nati-

are,

Ithe

bedi-

ach-

ueen

eve-

Can-

rend

Can-

the n for rine

ing.

apon

rned

arly, salty.

ned

75.

ome

And p. 67. that other pretence, scil.

"That after a Lawfull Sovereign is Ibid. p. 67,

" established, the Power still remains 68.

" in the People (in the diffused Body

" of them, or their Representatives)

" to alter the Government, as they

" please; it is in respect of Policy,

" and Government, what the fin a" gainst the Holy Ghost is to Religion,

" it destroys the foundations of the peace, and fafety of men, and makes that to be the Artifice of Man, which

" is the Ordinance of God: How much

God abhorred this prevence, will ap" pear in the case of Corab, and his " Company.

The Reverend Dr. Tillotson, Dean of Canterbury, in his Letter to the late Lord Russel, has these expressions, to wit,

"That the Christian Religion doth plainly forbid the Resistence of Au-

01

11

HOI

jeal

ing Pajj fuot the

flica

Ros

in 1

may 18

00

912

" thority.

"That though our Religion be esta"blished by Law, yet in the same

" Law which establishes our Religion,

" it is declared, at who wooded we go

"That it is not Lawfull upon any pretence whatsoever to take up "Arms, &c.

"Besides that, there is a particular,

" Law declaring the Power of the "Militia to be folely in the King;

" and that ties the hands of Subjects,

"though the Law of Nature and the General Rules of Scripture had left

" us at liberty, which I believe they " do not, because the Government and Peace of Humane Society could " not well subsist upon those Terms.

As thus these abovementioned Perfons, so indeed, all the learned Men of the Church of England, who have wrote any thing largely of the Subjects

ject's Duty towards their Prince, have unanimously declared contrary to the Factious Authour of Julian the Apostate, scil. That all Lawfull Kings and their Lawfull Heirs by Primogeniture, of what Religion, or Manners foever. Good or Bad, they be, ought Successive ly to Reign and Govern, and to be honoured and obeyed by all their Subjects, either Actively, by chearfully doing whatever they shall Command; or Paffively, by humbly and peaceably fubmitting to whatever punishment, their said Princes shall think fit to inflist upon them, for not obeying their Royal Commands Actively. And if any Prince should (after he is seated in the Throne) prove Tyrannical, we may not Rebell, nor plot his Depolition & But and de miles Τέτο μόνον εχόντων καπά τε διώκτε φάς- Nazian. O-

: manor, &c.

)ean

the

ons.

Au-

estalame.

gion,

any.

up.

ular

the 被;

ietts,

left

they

ment

ould

1830 -

Per-10 11

have

Subjects

Our onely Remedy is, what was Nazianzen's and the Christians, in the Reign of Julian the Apostate, to Wit, Prayers, Fastings and Tears.

This was the practice of the Primitive Christians, and ever has been the Profession and Practice of the Protefant Church of England:

And therefore, whoever lives in Rebellion against his Lawfull Prince, and dies in and for the same without publick and hearty Repentance, Acknowledgment and Confession to God and to Man, of that his Rebellion, or secret plotting of Rebellion; Neither does such a man live, nor any true way, can he be said, to dye, in Communion with the Protestant Church of England;

But as he lived, or Recufant, So he dies either a Fanatick

And No Protestant.

And thus died most of the late Fanatical Associations and Rebels, inasmuch as most of them died, without the least expression of their sorrow and penitence for, and without humble and publick Consession of, their Horrible Plot and Treason for which they were Condemned. As appears by their own Papers given to the Sheriss, and Published by Authority.

And

in

pri

And here it will be requisite, that we (as far as we are able) undeceive the people, and tell the Naked Truth, to Wit.

That the abovementioned Persons abused the World, and imposed upon the ignorant people, a notorious falfity, when at their Executions they declared, they died Protestants, and in Communion with the present Church of England:

For, no Rebel whatever, whilst he impenitently continues such, is, nor can be, a Protestant:

ote-

Re-

and

Jub-

-WC

and

le-

ther

true

om:

bof

Cant,

inaf.

and

and

rible

vere

For every wilfull and obstinate Rebel and Plotter against the King, does indeed deny the King's Supremacy.

And whoever denies the King's Supremacy, is No Protestant;

And therefore, being No Protestant, he ought not to be admitted into Communion and Fellowship with the Protestant Church of England, untill such a person shall openly repent of his Anti-Protestant Disobedience to the Church's Canons and Orders, and of his Rebellion and Treefon against the King.

And (as we humbly conceive) those Divines and Ministers did not act Canonically (though we believe, Charitably) in administring the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper unto Perfons Condemned for High Treason, in plotting the Murther of the King and of his Royal Highness, without their publick Confession of that their heinous Sin and Treason.

Da

101 tin

tha

to ly

pe

fer T

001 111:

12

Their not Confessing that their Guilt; when clearly proved against them, did apparently argue, not onely their Malice, but also the Continuance of their Malice to the very last Gasp, against the King and the Duke.

And therefore to admit such unto the Sacrament, was to harden them, and others of their Party, in their Wickedness and Malice against the King, the Duke, and the established Government in Church and State, and was a palpable Breach of the Statute, and of the Rubrick,

Which fays,

The Order for Adminiftr. of the Lord's Supper, Pref.

That if any person be an open and notorious Evil Liver (as surely are all Wilfull Rebels!) or have done any wrong wrong to his Neighbour by Word and Deed (as surely Traytors have done to the King their Neighbour, by plotting his Death!)

The Curate having knowledge thereof, shall call him and advertise him, that in any wise he presume not to come to the Lord's Table until he have openly declared himself to have truly repented.

hole

Ca.

ura.

Per-

, in heir

nous

heir

one-

inu-

laft

the

unto heir the

and tute,

10-11 with those betwixt whom he perceiveth Malice and Hatred to reign—not suffering them to be partakers of the Lord's Table, untill he know them to be Reconciled—And if one party shall remain still in his Frowardness and Malice—The Minister shall not admit him that is Obstinate.

CHAP. V.

The Dostrine and Practice of Depoling Lawfull Kings, and of Excluding the Right Heir by Primogeniture, from Succeeding in the Throne, for his want of Grace, or for being an Heretick, Idolater, Tyrannical or Wicked, is Grounded upon nothing but Poperv and Fanaticism.

SECT. I.

This wicked Doctrine and Practice of Deposing and Murthering Kings, and of Precluding their Lawfull Heirs, for being Hereticks, &c. is grounded on Popery.

HE truth of the Affertion is fo well known, as, "That Dr. Lloyd's Serm. Nov. there is no Kingdom in our Euro-5. 1679.

pean

66

R

pæan World, but the Pope hath given it away upon the Account of

" Religion: No Countrey, but he has King James's made an Aceldama upon the ac-Works, p.

count of Religion. And many

" Kings hath he kill'd merely for Re" ligion.

his 111-led

and

This we will confirm and prove by the Authority of the most Eminent and most Authentick of their own Writers.

Such as.

Thomas Aquinas, who fays, (a)(a) Nullo ma-That Infidels or Unbelieving Princes do permittie are not to be suffered to Govern and Infideles ac-Reign over Believers. And that if quirant Domithere be any such Infidels and unbe-deles, vel qualieving Princes (b) then the Church litercung; eie has Power and Authority to Depose presiciantur in and Remove them from their Govern &c. ment; and the Church ought to doe it; men juste per and that because (c) a King's Insidelity sententiam vel forfeits his Right of Dominion and Ju-ordinationem risdiction over Believers.

Ecclesia auctoritatem Dei habentis, tale jus Dominii, vel pralationis tolli; (c) Quia Infideles merito fua infidelitatu merentur porestatem amittere super fideles, &c. Tho. Aquin. 22a. quaft. 10. art. 10. conclus. p. 22.

And by, Infidelis, an Infidel, Aquinas plainly tells us, that he means An Heretick.

For in his fense,

(a) Harefis est infidelitatis species ad eos pertinens qui fidem Christi proejus dogmata corrumpunt. Oc. ibid. quest. II. art. I. conclus. p. 23.

An Heretick (a) is no few, Turk, or Pagan, who absolutely denies Christ and Christianity. But according to Aquinas, An Heretick is a Christian, fessi junt, & that is, one who prosesses that he Believes in Christ, and hopes for Salvation onely by Him, But, he purloins, perverts, and corrupts the Doctrine of Christ.

Now such an Heretick, whether Prince or Peasant, is not to be tolerated, but after the fecond Admonition he is to be Excommunicated, and (b) Qui post Delivered up to the Secular (b) Powers secundam correptionem in to be put to Death; and the Church fuo errore ob- does Command all other Foreign Prinnent, non mo-ces to give their Assistence towards the do Excommu-Deposition, and destroying such an nicationis sen-Heretical Prince, that so, this lower tiam Secula-World might the sooner be rid of him.

ribus principibus exterminandi tra-

Stinati perma-

dendi sunt, & per mortem à Mundo excludi meruerunt, &c. ibid.

tion

But

He

011

14 cur

pai

W

Au

m

tio

ki

ca

af

he lyuz-

eans

urk,

rist

to

Bea

lvains,

ole=

ni-

ind

ers

in-211

ver.

0

· And that Aquinas, in the forementioned places, is to be understood of Heretical Kings, as well as of their Subjects, is evident, in that his Argument runs chiefly against them, who have Right to Govern jure humano; But, fays he, because they are turned Hereticks, therefore jure Divino, they ought not to Reign, but to be, not onely Excommunicated, but also, put to Death. For, Quicunque resistit Aucto- Aguin, 224. ritati Romanæ Ecclesiæ, Hæresim in- quast. 11. art. currit; qua quidem Auctoritas principaliter residet in Summo Pontisice, &c. Whoever Resists the Authority of the Church of Rome, that is to fay, the Authority of the Pope and his Supremacy (as do all Protestant Princes) he is an Heretick; and being an Heretick, he ought to be destroyed and killed.

And although a King excommunicated thould, in the Popilh sense, repent, and return to the Church of Rome, yet, (a) Idea ulterhe is to be admitted (a) onely unto rius redeun-Penitence, and not to be absolved from ter quidem ad the sentence of Death passed upon him. prenter in amount amount ut liberentur à Sententia Mortis. Aquin. 22a. qu. 11. art. 4. conclus.

(a) Et ideo

The Prerogative

All Heretical Kings are by Aquinas, accounted no other than Tyrants, and therefore, says he, the People may Lawfully fight against them, and be no ways guilty (a) of Sedition and Treason.

tion

He

pro

( 25

gai

De

nei ble

Po

nicated

perturbatio Treason. Tyranni Re-

giminis non habet rationem Seditionis. ibid. 22n. qu. 42. art. 2. 3m. p. 80.

The Council of Trent Decreed all (b) si quem Emperours (b) and Kings (as well as Clericorum, others) to be Excommunicated, who shall, upon any account whatever, fell dignitate, e- and alienate any Church-Lands, Goods riam Imperior Chattels, without the Pope's leave. It, prafulgeat, in tantum malorum omnium Radix, cupiditas occupaverit, ut alicujus Ecclesia—Bona, census ac jura etiam feudalia, &c. quacunque arte, aut quocunque quasito colore in proprios usus convertere—iis Anathemati tam diu subjaceat, &c. Sess. 22. c. 11.

And if any person, great or small, King or Subject, shall be found guilty (c) Sitq, ergs of Contumacy against any Spiritual and judicem Con-Ecclesiastical fudge, then the said reos etiam A-Judge may, (c) at his pleasure, not nathematis onely Excommunicate such an offender, mucrone, arbitros fuo, prater but also decree him to be punished any alim penns seconder ways, as the said Judge shall forc. think sit. And if the said excommunicate.

ing.

and

may d be

and

d all

ell as

who

, fell

roods

ave.

licujus ut arte,

Ana-

mall,

uilty land

not der,

anv

nicated person (though a King, for it is, Quicunque post legitimas admoni. Concil. Trid. tiones non resipuerit, &c. Whosoever) sess. 25. 6.3. shall after legal Admonition continue obstinate, he shall be punished as an Heretick, that is, with Death. Contra eum, tanquam de Hæresi suspectum, procedi posit. ibid.

Bonaventure declares it for an undoubted Truth, that the Supreme Power

(a) on Earth is in the Pope, and that (a) Fam ver (as he already has often done, so a possunt Sacergain) he may Remove Kings, and tifices ex cau-Depose Emperours, for their Wicked sa amovere nesses, and that the Pope is accounta- Reges, & deble for so doing, unto no Earthly ratores, ficut Power whatever, whether Regal, Im fepius accidit, perial or otherwise, but onely unto quando scili-God.

dotes or Poncet eorum malitia hoc exigit. of Rei-publica necessitas sic requirit : Summus verò Pontifex penes quem in terris prima residet Austoritas, non à Rege, non à Principe seculari, non ab homine judicatur, sed solius Dei judicio reservatur. Bonavents lib. de eccles. Hierarch. c. 1.

Cardinal Bellarmine affures his Reader, That the Popes of Rome have power not onely to Excommunicate. but also to Depose and Sentence to Death, Heretical and ungodly Kings.

(a) Poffe à Romano Pontifice Principes Christianicari, 6 principatu privari, eorumque subditos ab obedientia de potest. sum. Pontif. praf. D. 6.

and to give away (a) their Crowns and Lands unto others that are Godly and Catholick, and to absolve their nos excommu- Subjects from all Duty and Allegiance to them; and to confirm the truth of what he afferts, he quotes the Authority and Judgment of Pope Gregory the eorum absolvi, 7th, of Cajetan, Pet. Ancharanus, Syl-Gr. Bellarm. vester Prieras, Astensis, and many others, for the same. And he highly applauds and justifies the Pope's excommunicating Hen. 8th, King of England for Herefie; which Herefie, was onely King Henry's Renouncing the Pope's Supremacy, and Defending his own.

The Horrid practice of Affaffinating and Murthering Lawfull Kings for want of Grace, and for Herefie, is amply justified and highly commended as a meritorious Act, by Pope Sixtus Quintus in his large Oration made to the Cardinals in Confistory at Rome on Septemb. 11. 1589. upon the Murther and Death of Henry the Third, King of France, who was most barbarously Assassinated and Stab'd to Death, in the midst of his Army, by FAQUES CLEMENT a Popish-Dominican Fryar.

Some

1001 Pr

An

DIDNE odly

ance thof

the

Syl-

y 0-ghly

ex-

En-

Was

the

ting

vant

ju=

mentus

Car-

emb.

eath

1800, ina-

dft NI

Some of the faid Pope's own words are as follow in the Margin.

In which you will find Pope Sixtus (a) Quintus so far from disclaiming against the Monk for that execrable quo nunc ver-Murther committed upon the afore-ba facimus, said King's Person, as that, he rather of quod his diebus nostris in high strains of Rhetorick Wonder- evenit, verè fully applauds the faid Hellish Fact, infigne, memoand styles it a most famous, memorable, ne incredibile and well-nigh incredible Act, yea, a opus est, nec work done not without the particular Mar, particular Providence and disposition of Almigh lari providenty God; A Fryar has kill'd a King vim: Occidit And for fear his Auditours should think Monachus he told them a Romance, he repeats it Regem, non again, saying, I assure you, A Monk has sistumin charkill'd a King, not a King (b) painted ta, aut pariein Paper, or pictured upon a Wall, not gem Francoa fack of Lent, but a real, living King, rum in medio even the French King in the midst of milite & cuhis Army, whilst encompassed about stodia septum. with his Guard. And although All Monks by their Holy Order and Pro- (c) Ifte Mofession (e) were forbid to shed blond, his ac pugnis

Max. particupi&um(b)aut

factus, of à sanguine, vitæ suæ instituto, ita abhorrens, ut nec ex vena incifione fusum cruorem forsan ferre potuerit.

yet it was commendable in this Monk.
And farther, the Pope acquaints the Cardinals with what Instrument (a)

his

Kin

peri

be 1

nitent

Temus

to E

(a) Etiam the Monk effected his bloudy design, cum Cultello ad hoc propositum praparato, non in vagina condipurpose.

to (unde poterat esse probabilis excusatio) sed nudo, ac in Manicà abscondito, quem si invenissent, mox fuisset in crucem actus.

But that which feems most inhumane in this Pope, was his Denying the aforesaid Murthered King, Christian Burial, and his Holiness pleaded Sa-

(b) De perso- cred Scripture for his (b) warrant.

cum dolore diximus, cujus infaustus sinis eximit quoque ipsum ab iis officiis, que solet hec sansta sedes Imperatoribus & Regibus post mortem exhibere: que pro isto libenter secissemus, nisi id sieri, in hoc casu, Sacre Scripture vetarent.

After all this Barbarity, any one in pity and charity would have thought, that although the said Pope denied the Massacred King Honourable and Christian Burial, yet he would not have denied him his own, and all compassionate mens Prayers for His Majesty's Souls deliverance, if not from Purgatory, yet from Hell; But such was his implacable malice against the said (a) Decreve King, as that he did not onely decree, mus pro ipso that (a) no funeral Rites should be Rege non essential performed for him,

But also, that (b) no prayers should be made for him after his Death, he (b) Intelligity in his Heresie, was excluded tum Regem from all Grace and Mercy hereafter.

ex hac vita sine penitennitentem excessisse, nimirum in Consortio Hareticorum—atque pro tali peccato, seu pro Homine sic peccante, noluit Apostolus, ut post mortem oraremus. Sixt. Quint. Pont. Max. Serm. Roma Consist. Sept. 11. 1589.

Jodocus Lorichius affures us also, That it is the constant Doctrine of the Church of Rome, scil.

san Sa-

1707-

1 hoc ein

ght, the

hri-

have

Mi-

ty's

Tras

his

That the Pope has power not onely to Excommunicate, but also to Depose and Remove all Emperours, (c) Kings, (c) Papa hand Secular Magistrates that are Irre-bet dominium seu imperium feu imperium temporale in quantacunque eminentia ac dignitatu sint: ita ut Imperatores, Reges, bis Inferiores, si Religioni or justitua Christiana adversentur, non folum excommunicare, sed or ab officiis removere ac deponere possit, oc. Jod. Lorich. Flagell. Papa. p. 443.

And if such Emperours, Kings and Princes, so excommunicated and deposed, shall resist the Pope's Authority, and endeavour to continue themselves in their Thrones, then the Pope K 2 (a) has

(a) has power to raise an Army, and by nolint, potest force to subdue the said Rebellious Kings (a) Si autem ipsemet Papa and Princes. conscribere ex-

ercitum, & Rebelles pro viribin subjugare, ibid.

> And the faid Lorichius nominates several Emperours and Princes that have been Excommunicated and Deposed by several Popes.

For instance: Leo Isauricus the Emperour excommunicated by Pope Gregory the Se-

Childeric, King of France, Deposed by Pope Zacharias, and his Kingdom given away to Pipin.

Henry the Emperour was Deposed

by Pope Gregory the 7th.

Frederic the Emperour was Deposed by Innocent the 4th.

Otto the Emperour was Deposed by Pope Innocent the 3d.

And as for the rest of Emperours and Kings deposed by the Popes, Larichius refers his Reader to Baronius his Annals, and to Bellarmine, de Pont. Sum l. 5. c. 8.

Edu

moi

place

And we will refer our Reader to the Histories and Lives of

Who were all Excommunicated by the Pope, Edw. 6. (though, God bethanked, they were all strong enough to keep themselves in their Thrones. K. Fames,

Suarez, who is an Antesignanus among the fejuits, declares in feveral places of his Book, intituled Defensio Fidei

That the Pope has power to depose (a) any Heretical King, and that (a) Post senwhen any King is deposed by the tentiam la-Pope, then any private person may law privatur regfully kill such an Heretical King.

no, ita ut non possit justo titulo illud possidere, ergo ex tunc poterit tanquam omnino Tyrannum trasfari, & consequenter à quacunque privata persona poterit interfici. Suarez, defens. fid. 6. 6. c. 4.

Lessius and Filliucius jointly affirm, That any private man may for the propagation of Religion kill any King, or other man, who shall oppose the Growth of true Religion; though, as * Lessius, de jur. & just. l. 2. c. 9. dub. 8. fe&. 47.

the Lord Bishop of St. Asaph well obferves, Lessius says, Talis * in Republica benè constituta, ut Homicida plecte. retur, &c. Few men will attempt to doe it, for fear, they should be hanged for their pains.

And very confidently Father Campian declares, That all the fesuits. throughout the whole World, are enter'd into a solemn League and Vovo, to make away and destroy all Heretical Kings in any manner whatsoever, nor will they despair of effecting it, as long Camp. in Ep. ad Concil. as there shall be one Jesuit remaining Reg. Angl. in the World.

P. 22.

We might produce Paulus de palatio, and many other Writers of the Roman Church to the same purpose; But these are sufficient to prove our Assertion, to wit.

That the Doctrine and Practice of Deposing and Killing Lawfull Kings, and of precluding their Lawfull Heirs from reigning, for their Herefie, or for want of Grace, or for their Moral Wickedness, is grounded and first founded

Upon Popery,

of

Oh-

oub-

to 000, nor

ing

ur'

irs

And was preached and practifed first of all by the Popes, and Papists of the Church of Rome.

SECT. H.

The Doctrine and Practice of Resisting Lawfull Kings, and of Deposing and Killing them, and of Excluding their Right Heirs, for want of Grace, or for ill Government, or for being Idolaters, or for being of a different Religion from themselves, is also grounded on Fanaticism.

By Fanaticks, Rodolph Gualter means all those who Deny the King's Supremacy, and set up some other power above the King, which may controll him in matters Ecclesiastick and Civil, although they be not Papists in profession.

K.4 401

And

(a) De Christi And these Fanaticks (a) are not Ecclesia Isai- onely Anabaptists and Quakers, but as vaticinans, they are also the Classical Divines, revisios by Re- commonly called Presbyterians, and ginas mutrices the Congregational Divines, alias, Infore pollicetur: dependents.

vanda non fo-

lum propter Anabaptistas, & borum similes Fanaticos homines, qui omnem cum Politicum tum Ecclesiasticum ordinem e medio sublatum volunt: verum etiam propter Pontisices, & c. qui in Ecclesia omnem potestatem ad se transfulerunt, & nesus esse clamant, ut Reges atque Principes quicquam in illa constituant, aut ad reformandum cultum Dei manum admoveant. Rod. Gualter. in Div. Luc. Homil. 177. p. 468. And again he says, Fateor tamen hujus mali culpam non minima exparte, in Phanaticis quibusdam herere, qui religionis & libertatis Christiana pratextu abutuntur, ut Ordinem politicum turbent & indignum esse dicunt, Hominem Christianum (puta Regem) gladio armatum esse quo alios sua professionis homines coerceat. ibid. Hom. 195. p. 515.

All which, do deny the King's Supremacy; and do fet up another power above that of the Kings.

Such as, the Consistorian Power among the Presbyterians:

And the Congregational-Church Power among the Independents.

What is meant by Fanatick, and what by Fanaticism.

These are the men, we mean, by Fanaticks; and their Doctrine and Practice of Deposing and Destroying Kings, for their, supposed, Tyranny, Idolatry, or want of Grace, and of Preclu-

ding

13

Real

ding their Right Heirs, for any fuch

Is the Sum of what we mean, by Fanaticism.

And because, These men pretend to be against Popery,

ut

In-

Mr.

68.

um

rer

But yet do deny the King's Supremacy, and do maintain the Popish Doctrine and Practice of Deposing and Killing Kings, and of Debarring their Lawfull Heirs from Reigning, for their Tyranny, Heresie, and want of Grace,

We therefore call them Fanatical-

Recusants, and not Protestants.

Of this Number of Anti-Protestants we cannot but reckon these that follow:

John Calvin, who in his Sermon 131, on Job 34. writ in French, has these words, as they are Translated into English by Arth. Gilding, Anno Dom.

"Whereas God hath forbidden pri- Jo. Calvin, water persons to rail upon their Ru- Serm. 131. in Job. 34.

" lers, it is to make us to live in p. 675.

peace, and without trouble, and to yield

" yield some Reverence to the seat of " Justice.—But if there be evil and " wicked Governours, they must be " Tharply rebuked, according to their " Deservings .- And we must pull " down all Loftiness that lifteth up it " felf against our Lord Jesus Christ. " Those then that will needs be spa-" red, and have their Vices untouch-" ed, because they be in Authority, " must coin a new Gospel. Of which " number, are the Kings in our days, " which will needs be called Anoin-" ted and Holy, and yet cannot a-" bide to have their foars touched by " any means, but would have liberty " to pervert all things, &c.

And in his Institutes, he speaks more plainly, and says,

Con

"That although it be not Lawfull for private men * to rife up against * Si qui nunc " fint populares se their King, yet where there are in-Magistratus . feriour Magistrates elected out of ad moderandam Regum the people, or where there are three libidinem con-Orders or States, there the people Stituti, &c. Calv. Instit. ought by their Representatives, to 1. 4. c. 20. moderate their King's ill Govern-S. 31. p.311. ment

ment, to punish his Vice and Tyranny, and to over-rule him, as the Ephori did the Lacedemonian Kings, and as the peoples Tribunes did the " Roman Consuls, whom they Depo-" sed, when they thought fit; and " that they are Traytors to the Peo-" ple and Common-wealth, if they do not oppose their Prince's Tyranny.

Pit

lpa• uch-

rity,

oin-

ot a-

e 18=

ople , to

jernment

Theodore Beza imitates his Master Calvin, and writes very unworthily and reproachfully of (a) Kings, taxing them generally with Pride and Luxu (a) Cijusmodi ry, with Cruelty and Covetousness, with pietas, avari-Folly and Ignorance:

vitia funt,imtia, ambitio, crudelitas, luxus', libidines, &c. Beza. de Confes. fid. c. 5.

And therefore Beza fays,

That Kings ought not to presede, nor to be present in Oecumenical or National Councils and Synods:

And thus, he clearly denies the King's Supremacy, by virtue of which, Constantine preseded in the first Nicene Council.

Bezas

But the same of the

Min balance

Jake to the

MARCILL HIT

Beza's own words are,

Bez. Conf. sid. Deinde res ipsa ostendit, periculosisside Eccl. c. 5. mum esse Principum Auctoritate Concilia subjicere, multis de causis, &c.

And as for Diocesan Bishops, he did not onely utterly deny any such Order, but very provokingly, calls them, Porcorum & Asinorum armentum, no better than Hogs and Asses.

And after Beza had excluded Kings from Councils, Synods and Church Affairs, then he subjugates Kings and all Secular Magistrates to his Consistorian Orders and Discipline—Et vicissim nemo est, qui verbo Dei, ac proinde Ecclesiastica Disciplina, non subjiciatur, Ec.

which Ecclesiastick Orders and Canons he makes equivalent with the Word of God.

After all this, Beza goes on to inform his Reader (as did Calvin, and he uses many of Calvin's own words) to wit,

That the Parliament States or Burgesses of the People may and ought to check and restrain wicked Kings, and severely

m, lar

est,

ica

the 0 100

Bur-

feverely to punish (a) them; and if (a) Hic igithey do not, then they are Traytours to run quid erit their Countrey. And although it be confituendum? respondee Sunot lawfull for private men to oppose, perioribus correct or depose Kings when they cujus modi govern ill, yet the aforesaid Inferiour nunc sunt separe guilty of the above-mentioned viperio, quos ere guilty of the above-mentioned viperio, quos eres. And he makes the Septemviri, lectores voces. And he makes the Septemviri, lectores voces. And he makes the People ni Status in to be the Superiour Powers above the omnibus fere Monarchiis, hoc onus incumbere, ut furentes Tyrannos cohibeant: quod ni faciant, ipsos ut Patriæ Proditores, rationem sue persidiæ coram Domino reddituros: quod autem attinet ad privatos homines—tenere illos oportet, plurimum inter se disserve, injuriam inserve dy injuriam pati, dyc. Beza Consess. side Eccles. Edit. Genev. p. 171, 172.

Amandus Polanus, Querying,
Whether the People do sin, in Conventicling to hear the Word of God, contrary to the King's Edicts? (b) (b) An subdictionary to the King's Edicts? (c) the determines it in the Negative, scil. if peccent contra interdictionary in the Non peccant; they do not sin.

Non peccant; they do not sin.

tes ad audiendum Evangelium? R. Non peccant.

And Querying again,
Whether it be Lawfull to Refist a Tyrannical King?

He

dien

to t

figl

10

0

0

to

pr

fti

He Answers, scil. (a) (a) Si Rex seu Princeps That if a King has taken an Oath Monarchiam to govern by Law, but contrary to habeat limitatam & ad-his Oath; He governs Tyrannically, then it is in the power of the States, tis conditionibus, in quas the Lords and Princes of the Kingjuravît, seu quas se prodom to punish and correct such a misst servatu- Prince, and by force of Arms to supprefs his Tyranny. tus aut Primores Regni seu

Principatus est, coercere Regis seu Principis Tyrannidem dy immanita-

Nay, He says farther,

That it is not onely Lawfull, but (b) In Opalso Meritorious (b) for any private pressa Repubperson to kill a Tyrannical King, who lica, si quis Tyrannum oc- by his undue courses shall afflict and oppress the Common-wealth, and that tanquam de Civitate bene the City ought amply to Reward the faid Regicide. mium decernitur. Amand-Polan. Syntag. Theol. l. 10. c. 72. p. 1247, 1248.

Frederic Baldwin a Lutheran, and a Profession of Divinity at Witteberg, does very Fanatically distinguish between the King's Person and his Office, and fays, That the Honour and Obedience

2 8 10 miles ().

dience which the Subjects owe, is due to the (a) King's Office, and not to his (a) In obedientia, non is Person. qui præest, sed officium respiciendum est. Non Persona Magistratum gerenti, sed officio, honor debetur. Frid. Baldv. Analys. in Rom. 13. 1.

So that, Subjects may, according to this distinction, take up Arms and fight against the King's Person, and not against his Kingly Office. may kill the King, as in England did the late Rebels, and yet preserve his Office, and fet up another Person in his Office, that is, in his Throne.

And the faid Baldwin, Querying, Whether it be Lawfull for Subjects to Refist their King, in case he should prove Tyrannical?

He Answers, (b)

That in those Kingdoms, where subditi non omnino privathere are Inferiour States and Magi-ti funt, sed in strates Representing the People, as in Inferiori Maan House of Commons, there the Infe-giftratu con-Refistere pof-sunt Superiori Magistratui, si degenerat in Tyrannum-Nam do Inferiores Magistratus debent contra vim injustam subditorum vitam de bona defendere-ubi tamen & hoc notandum, inferiori Magistratui omnia prius tentanda, quam ad Arma veniendum, ne videatur Rebellare, Oc. Frider. Baldvin. in Ro. 13. v. 1. quaft. 3.

A

Fan

(on

Frie

Sub

qua !

quan

pre

Kin

Pel

and

ha ra

r 1 100

riour Magistrates may lawfully oppose the said Tyrannical King or Supreme Magistrate; and may raise an Army against him, and may depose, and (if necessity require) kill him, as the Jews did Tyrannical Athaliah; if he will not yield to the demands of the said Inseriour Magistrates and Representatives of the People.

Peter Martyr destroys all his former wholesome Dostrine of Obedience unto Kings and the Supreme Magi-Strates, when he affirms,

That if the Superiour Powers shall suffer Vice and Idolatry to reign, then,

(a) Atqui, su- as (a) it was a virtue in the zealous perior pote-stan, inquium, Jews to oppose the Idolatrous Doings fier hac im- of the Heathen Kings and Emperours, by raising Tumults, Seditions and tea multis re-Wars against them, as did the Mac-spondimus, chabees and others;

st eadem potestas, civitatem perdere, aut privilegia eripere, aut minuere conaremr, id nunquam serrent, ad Arma potius conclamarent, syc. Pet. Mart. Loc. Com. de Magistr. p. 1029.

So, is it the Duty of all Christian Subjects to oppose, and by force of Arms to Suppress the Idolatry and Tyranny of Kings, and of the Higher Powers.

And

emè

rmy

the

· he

the

for:

hall

hen,

lous

ngs

DATS,

lac-

ber

And Rob. Rolloc makes the fame
Fanatical Distinction between the Perfon and the Power of a King, as did Frider. Baldwin; and says, that the Subject is to shew Obedience (a) ra- (a) Obedienther to the Power and Office of the King, that prestanda than to the Person of the King.

Homini, quam
Porestari; quadre

si Homini prastanda sit Obedientia, non alia ratione prastanda est quam qua hac potestate armatus est à Deo, quare in obediendo non tam Perfonos Hominum intueri debemus, quam potestatem illam & Austoritatem quam gerunt, &c. Rolloc. in Ro. 13. p. 357.

Upon this Distinction (as was hinted before) did the late Presbyterian Rebels, both Scotch and English, raise War against King Charles the First, pretending they fought not against the King and his Authority, but against the Person of Charles Stuart, who was King, and his evil Counsellours.

And the Independents, when they had Murthered Him, faid, That they had not killed the King, but the Man Charles Stuart, the last of English Tyrants.

Stephanus Cursellaus, as Fanatically as any, declares it to be his judgment, That it is an horrible fin and wickedness, for any King or Supreme Magistrate to make Laws to force

(a) Malam their (a) Subjects unto an Observation essemble of their Ecclestastick Rites and Cerecansa side common monies, and unto a Conformity with, do evici: quis and the Embracement of, their Relipius, of y religion, although it be the true Religion. vet Magistra.

tus non horreseret ad ejus modi impietatem vel minimum quid conferre ? quod si adeo malum do periculi plenum sit etiam ad veram Religionem cogere, quanto magis ad falsam ? Cursella: Instit, 1, 7 c. 27.

6. 8

(b) --- Miserè

perierint, ut

fint in exemplum cuntis

Regibus (5

And Curfellæus his argument is this, feil. Because (in his opinion) Princes cannot bind nor oblige the Consciences of men by any of their Laws.

The Conscience belongs onely unto God, and He onely is the Judge of it, And therefore God onely can make Laws to oblige it.

Wherefore this our Authour, concludes, All those Princes to be Usurpers of God's Prerogative, who offer to make Laws, binding and obliging Mens Consciences, and that (b) they must expect the Revenging Hand of God to follow them for so doing.

Magistratibus
qui tale aliquid attentare prasumpserint; & terrorem iis incutiant;
inde discentes, se Ultrices Dei manus non evasuros, si imperium in Conscientias subditorum, quod sibi soli reservatum voluit, usurpaverint, &c.
Cursel, ibid.

That

And which is Anabaptistical and most Fanatical of all, is this, to wit,

That Cursellaus will not allow Christian Kings so much as to Imprison, Mulct or Fine any Hereticks or Schifmaticks, upon the account of Religion:

37.

nto it.

00-

ME S

Con-

hat

And his argument for it is this, scil.

For fear (a) Kings should persecute, (a) Fieri posses imprison, mulch and punish Christ ut pre immodice Impies to himself, under the notion of Schism or Hereicos exHeresie, as did Saul, alias, Paul.

flum issum, quemadmodum Saulus olim, in membris suin persequantur, vinciant, & trucident, &c. ibid. §. 9.

In the case of Idolatry, the said Curfelleus consesses,

That if any Hereticks or Idolaters should set up their Idols, then, the King has power (b) to take away and abolish the said Idols. But the King quidem subhas no power to make any Law a-ditorum congainst Idolatry, which can affect and scientis vim oblige the Conscience of the Idola-cipi est liciter.

fatem habet abolenda idola, &c. ibid. §. 13.

Thus Cursellaus disarms all Chris stian Princes, and leaves them, as also the Church and State, naked and senceless against the turbulent Hereticks and Schismaticks, and opens the door to all Anarchy and Confusion, nay to all Sedition and Rebellion, and will not permit Kings by severe (a) Laws to suppress Rebels, if they should tumult and mutiny upon the account of Con-

La

are

fa

(a) Ita ergo debet obviam iri perturbationi Reipub-

lica, ut nulla science.

tamen conscientiis corum vis fiat, qui credunt officii sui alios (i. e. Reges of Magistratus) monere de erroribus de abusibus qui obtinent in Ecclesia, de eos placide emendare contendunt, quamvis enim contingat non raro ut fallantur, de pro erroribus habeant que veritati sunt consentanea, prastat tamen judicio Dei eos relinquere, quam ulla vi externa coercere. Curfel. lib. 7. c. 37. S. 19.

> For Hereticks and Schismaticks never Fight and Rebell, but out of a pretence of tenderness of Conscience.

Unto these, we may add those expressions of Grotius, who in many excellent Writings has out-done most men, but in the point of Refistence of Lawfull Kings for their supposed Tyranny, He (in our apprehension) mi-Serably errs; And upon his Authority many of the late most eminent, and learned learned Rebels justified their taking up Arms against the late King Charles of Bleffed Memory:

For Grotius declares, as before, Scil. (a) Si Rex That if a King proves (a) Tyrannical, reipsa etiam or if a King has taken an Oath to go - tradere regvern well according to the Laws of juere moliathe Realm, and breaks that his Oath, tur, quin ei then the Subjects are freed from all O- poffit, non dubedience to him their Prince, and may bito. Grot. do Lawfully Refist Him.

jur. Bell. l. T.

One thing farther is to be noted, That Grotius makes Kings elected and chosen by the People, to be under, and accountable to, the People (which is a very false and Fanatical notion) and He fays (b) that all fuch Kings who (b) Qui prinare thus fub Populo, may be punished pulo funt, five with Death if they offend and trans ab initio tagress against the Laws of the Common lem acceperant wealth, and he instances in King Pau- ve postea ira fanias that was put to Death.

N-W

cere

exex-

eat

ni-

Lacedamone,

leges at Rempublicam, non tantum vi repelli possunt, sed, si opus sit, puniri morte: quod Paulaniz Regi Lacedemoniorum contigit. ibid.

Philip Melanithon is hugely to blame, for justifying the zealous Bur-

The Prerogative

gess of Nicomedia in tearing into

(a) Ita nihil pieces, the Emperour's publick (a) Emali contra Imperatorem dict, although the said Edict was, posfaciebat Nifibly, not so good as the generality of comedensis Patricius, qui Edictum pub-

lice propositum, concerpsit. Melaneth. in Dan. c. 6. p. 101.

For that passionate and rash Action was no other than Rebellion against the Emperour's Person and Authority. And the man might as Lawfully have torn into pieces the Emperour's Person, as his Edict. And, in truth, the countenancing such a Rebellious Action, does very much encourage disaffected men unto a General Rebellion:

For, if it be Lawfull for One private man, then is it Lawfull for every man to Rebell, and in like manner to tear the King's Proclamations, Laws and Edicts into pieces:

Which to affirm, or to doe, is directly contrary to the Doctrine of the Gospel, and to the Profession and Practice of the Apostles and Primitive Christians.

Carried State of the State of t

"Unto

Lo

up.

AN

oft

De

tio

Ba

Bu

M

CÓ

Unto the above-mentioned Foreign Writers, we will add,

The late, and present, Covenanters and Fanatical Associatours, of, both,

Scotland, and England,

12 12 11 11 11 11

6

1012

1:

ve m,

10-11:

ed

ri-

7e-er

WS

di-

the 1C-

nto

Whose Disloyal and Factious Tenents, and Positions, the Famous and Loyal University of Oxford have Sum'd up, and have printed them with the Authours of them, and have by a Vote of their Congregation on July 24. 1683, Decreed,

That their said Fanatical and Sedi-Oxfords Detions Positions and Dostrines, and the cree.

Books containing them, be publickly

Burnt by the hand of their University

Marshall in the Court of their Schools.

Some of which Seditions Positions were these that follow, than by the Lawfull Governours become Tyrants, or Govern otherwise than by the Laws of God and Man they ought to do, they forfeit the Right they had unto their Government, Lex Rex, Jo. Milton, Jo. Goodwin, Rich. Baxter, H.C. And we will L 4

add, Iwarrns-Mehawa Bdehha, alias Jo. Blackbdell.

2. That the Sovereignty of England is in the Three Estates, scil. King, Lords and Commons. The King has but a co-ordinate Power, and may be over-ruled by the other two, Lex Rex, Hunton of limited and mixed power, Rich. Baxter, H. C. And note, that they took this false Doctrine from Calvin, Beza, and the rest abovementioned.

3. That Proximity of Bloud and Birth-Right give no Title to Rule or Government, and that it is Lawfull to preclude the next Heir from his Right and Succession to the Crown, Lex Rex, Doleman, Julian Apostate; and we may add the Votes of the late Associatours against the present Duke of York's Succession to the Crown of England.

4. That it is Lawfull for the Subjects, without the Consent, and against the Command, of the Supreme Magistrate, to enter into Leagues, Covenants, Associations, for defence of themselves and their Religion, Solemn League and Covenant, and the late Association.

5. That

110 er

M

nd

g,

185

be

X,

er,

bat

om

en-

10.

We,

ite; late

uke

101

Sub-

ve-

m-igae

on hat

ment is the Sceptre of Christ's Kingdom, to which Kings as well as others are bound to submit. And the King's Supremacy in Ecclesiastical Assairs asserted by the Church of England, is injurious to Christ, the sole King and Head of his Church. Altare-Damascenum, Cartwright, Travers; add Presbyt General Assembly in Scotland, 1592. Jam. Guthry's first Speech to the Parliament in Scotland.

ought to be put to death; and if the Judges and Inferiour Magistrates will not doe their Office, the power of the Sword devolves to the People; if the major part of the people refuse to exercise this power, then the Ministers may excommunicate such a King; after which it is Lawfull for any of the Subjects to kill him, as the people did Athaliah, and Jehn Jezabell; Buchanan, Knox, Goodman, Gilby.

7. That King Charles the First was Lawfully put to death, and his Murtherers were the Blessed Instruments of God's glory in their generation. Fo. Milton, Fo. Goodwin, Fo. Owen; and

The Prerogative

we will add John Blackbdell, alias, Iw-dung-Midaue-Bolidae

By these and the like Instances, which may be brought, it is proved to a very Demonstration,

That the wicked Dollrine and Practice of Refisting Lawfull Kings, and of Deposing and Killing them, and of Excluding their Right Heirs from Succeeding in their Thrones for ill Government, Heresie, or want of Grace, is Grounded on

Fanaticism,

And was never preached nor practifed by any Episcopal Protestants, but onely by the Papists and Fanaticks, who ever denied,

en en al la company de la comp

The King's Supremacy,
The English Churche's Episcopacy.

and the second second

CHAP. VI.

A Parallel; or, A Brief and True Account of some Plots and Treasons of Papists and Fanaticks, against the Kings and Queens of England, since the Reformation, and Abrenunciation of Popery.

VER since the Abrenunciation of the Pope's Jurisdiction in England, the Papists and Fanaticks have gone hand in hand in plotting and raising Sedition and Rebellion against our Kings and Queens, upon the Pretence of Religion.

As for instance,

The Papists, having Sir Francis Bygott for their General, raised War against King Henry the Eighth for his being a Protestant, and for Marrying a Lutheran. The Fanaticks, having Sir Thomas Wyat for their Commander, made War against Queen Mary, for her being a Papist, and for Marrying a Papist.

The Papists, Humfrey Arundell being their chief Captain, Rebelled at Excester in Devonshire, upon the account of Religion, in King Edward the Sixth's Reign, exclaiming bitterly against Protestantism.

The Fanaticks, Robert Kett being their chief Leader, made War, and Rebelled at Norwich in Norfolk, against the same King Edw. the Sixth, under the pretence of Religion, exclaiming Loudly against Popery.

The Papists plotted several times (but were not able to effect) the Deposition and Death-of Queen Elizabeth, a Protestant.

The Fanaticks plotted (and effected) the Deposition and Expulsion of Mary Queen of Scotland, a Papist.

The Papists plotted the Alteration of the Protestant Religion, that they might introduce Popery, in Queen Elizabeth's Reign.

The Fanaticks, in her Reign, plotted the Alteration of the established

Pro-

Protestant Religion, Some, as Cartwright, Travers, &c. that they might bring in their Genevan-Discipline, Others, as Hacket, Barrow, Brown, Coppinger, Penry, Thacker, &c. that they might usher in their Libertinism, Enthusiam and Donatism.

The Papists plotted to alter Religion, and to destroy King James by Gunpowder, and other ways.

Y

The Fanaticks, particularly George Brook, Henry Brook, Lord Cobham, Lord Gray of Wilton, &c. joyning in Conspiracy with the two Popish Priests, Watson and Clark, plotted to destroy King Fames, to alter Religion, to subvert the State, and to procure Foreign Invasion.

The Papists, in Ireland, upon the account of Religion, openly Rebelled against King Charles the First, and most barbarously Massacred thousands of his Protestant Subjects, thereby endeavouring to bring in Popery.

The Fanaticks in England and Scotland, upon the account of Religion, openly Rebelled against the same King Charles the First, and caused a bloudy Civil War, in which thousands of the

King's

The Prerogative

King's Loyal Subjects were Butchered and Murthered, they hoping thereby to extirpate the established Protestant Religion, and to bring in their General Presbytery, or Belgick Consustion.

The Papists in France Murthered King Henry the Third, and King Henry the Fourth of that Kingdom, and in Print justified the said Murthers,

The Fanaticks, in Scotland, Murthered King James the Fifth; And the Fanaticks in England most inhumanely Murthered, in the open fight of Heaven and Earth, King Charles the First, and in Print they justified the said horrid Murther to be a Lawfull and Meritorious AA.

The Papists of Lombardy Banished their Lawfull Prince, Frederick Barbarossa the Emperour, and at last betrayed him to the Sultan of Egypt.

The Fanaticks of England, by Vote of their Rump-Parliament, Banished their Natural Prince, King Charles the Second, and all the Royal Family, and did what they could to have betrayed Him into the hands of his Foreign and Domestick Enemies.

Since

Since the King's happy Restauration, the Fanaticks have out-done the Papists as to their Number of Plots.

We hear but of three Popish Plots, and onely two of them fully proved.

The Papists Plots, were

M

le-

ed

M-

M

#-

les

Ù.

ji.

36

led

d

ed

ce

T. The Burning of London, for which Hubbard a Papist of Roan was Executed.

2. Oates his Popish Plot, for which Edward Coleman, and several others, suffered Death.

3. The Meal-Tub Plot, for which Mrs. Celliers a Papist was imprisoned and fined.

Whereas the Fanaticks Plots have been Many more, fince the King's Reflauration; such as,

1. Venuer's Plot, for which he and several others were Executed.

2. The Disbanded Officers of Oliver's Army and others, plotted the Burning of London before 1666, and Killing the King, for which feven or eight of them were hang'd and quartered at Tyburn.

3. Tong's and other Fanaticks Plot in 1662, to Murther the King and the Duke of Tork, &c. was proved against gainst Him and his Confederates at Old-Baily, London, for which They were Executed.

4. Mason's Northern-Plot in 62, and 63. for which about twenty suffered Death in Torkshire and elsewhere.

their Plot, to have kill'd the King, and to have deposed the Bishops, and to have altered Religion.

on the King at Oxford, and with his Protestant-Flail to have Murthered the King's Leige-Subjects; for which he died by the hand of Justice, 1681.

at Rye-House in Hertfordshire to have Murthered the King and the Duke of York; for which Captain Walcot and others, were Executed, 1683. and Sir Thomas Armstrong and Holloway were Executed for the same Plot, 1684.

We cannot but note, that

The Papists in their Plot would have killed the King, but have faved the Duke of Tork, the Right Heir to the Crown.

The Fanaticks, in their Plots, would have Murthered both, the King and his (ey

eli

his Right Heir, the Duke of Tork.

The Papists had their Jesuits, Whitebread, Gavan, Hartcourt, &c. to promote their Plot.

The Fanaticks had their Priests, Lob, Ferguson, Casteers, &c. who encouraged their Plot.

d

6.

10

ed

ch

1. 01,

ve

of

Sir

ere

he

his

The Papists engaged several of the Nobility in their Plot against the King, if Oates, Bedloe, and others may be credited.

The Fanaticks engaged many (if not as many) of the discontented Nobility in their Plot, if Keeling, Rumley, and the Condemned persons Confession, may be believed.

In Oates his Popish Plot Were fix Lords, Impeached in Parliament, and none fled for it.

Such as

The Earl of Powis.

Viscount Stafford, who was Executed.

Lord Petre.

Lord Arundell of Wardour,

Lord Bellasis.

M

In

brin .

In Heeling's Fanatick Plot were accused to be, eight Noble Men:

Such as

The Earl of Shaftsbury, who fled, and died in Holland.

The Earl of Essex, who destroyed himself in the Tower.

The Duke of Monmouth, who sub-

Ford Lord Gray, who fled.

William Lord Russell, who was Executed.

Lord Howard of Escrick, a Wit-

Lord Melvin, who fled.

Brandon Lord Gerard, Bailed.

And be pleased to Note, that All the Papists, both Nobles and others, denied the Popish Plot to the last, but acknowledged the Treason, upon the Hypothesis, Oates his Plot were true.

The Fanaticks, both Noble Men and others, confessed Keeling's Plot, but denied the Treason, attending it, although the Plot was true.

And

R

And which of the two, whether Papift or Fanatick, lived, and died, the better Christian, we will leave to the World to judge.

And here we may, not impertinently, add Two Solemn Leagues, Oaths, and Covenants, one made against the King by the Papists, the other made against the King by the Fanaticks:

And in both, they pretend Loyalty and Obedience to the King, Zeal for Religion, and Good-will to the Commonwealth.

The Solemn Oath and Covenant of the Papists in Conspiracy, against King Henry the Eighth.

To wit,

C

the

fon, Plot

and 21-

Pilgrimage of Grace for the Bygot's Copenant.

Commyn-welthe, but only for the Love that you doe here unto Al-Speed's Hift.

M 2 mighty p. 787.

mighty Godde, his Faith, and to Doly Thurche Militant, the maintenance thereof, to the prefervation of the King's Person, his Islew, to the purifying of the Mobilitie, and to expulse all Ailanne Blode, and Evil Councellers against the Commpnwelthe, from his Grace and the Privie Counsell of the same, and that pe shall not enter into oure faid Pilarimage, for no particular profite to your felf, not to doe no displeasure to no privey person, but by Councell for the Commyn welther ner Slee, ner Durder for na entipe. but in your berts put away all fear and dread, and take afore you the Cross of Criste, and in your heres his Faith, the Restitution of the Thurche, the Subpression of these Derytyks, and their Opynpons, by all the holle Contents of this Boke

Ire

Apprilence of text processing the control of the co

The Fanaticks Solemn League and Covenant, against King Charles the First.

To wit,

111:

TE doe swear, That pe shall the Fanaincerely, really and constant ticks Scotch ly, thorough the Grace of God, en-Covenant. deavour in your several places and Full. Hist. ch. callings, The REFORMATION 1. lib. 11. c. of RELIGION in England and 21. p. 201. Ireland, as it is Reformed in Scotland. That pe thall, without respect of persons, endeavour the ertirpatis on of Popery, Prelacy, that is, Church-Government by Archbishops. Bishops, Deans, their Chancellours and Commissaries, and all other Ecclefialtical Officers, depending on the Hierarchy; That ye thall with the fame sincerity, reality and constancy in your feveral Clocations, endeabour with pour Estates and Lives mutually to preferbe the Rights and Privileges of the Parliaments, and the M 3

the due Liberties of the Umgdom, and to Preserve and Defend the King's Pajesty his Person and Authority, That the World may bear witness with your Consciences of your Loyalty, and that ye have no thoughts or intentions to diminish his Pajessy's just Power and Greatness.

That ye shall also with all faithfulness endeabour the discovery of all fuch as have been or shall be Incenpiacies, Palignants, or evil Instruments by hindring the REFORMATION, dividing the King from his People, that they may be brought to Tryal, and receive condign punishment,

Chat ye thall adift, and defend what ye can, all those that enter into this Blessed League and Cabenant.

That ye profess and declare before God and the Toloria, your unfeigned desire to be humbled for your sins, and for the sins of the kingdom, and that it is your true and unfeigned purpose to amend your lives.

And this Covenant ve make in the prefence of Almighty God, the fearcher of hearts, with a true intention to perform the same, as pe mall answer it at the Great day, when the fecrets of all hearts thall be disclosed, most humbly beseeching the Lord to Arengthen you by his holy Spirit to this end, and to blefs your vefires and proceedings with flictels, as may be deliverance and latety to his People, and encouengement to other Christian-Churthes groaning under, or in danger of the Poke of Anti-Chailtian Tyranny, to join in the same or like ASSOCIATION and Covenant, to the Glory of God, the Enlargement of the Kingdom of Jelus Chille, and the Peace and Tranquility of Chillian Kingdoms and Common-wealths.

11:

1.

地

EU4 Ulfo.

III

ME.

ur

nõ

So help you God. A CONTRACTOR OF THE STATE OF TH

M 4 NOW

NOW, if any, unbyassed, and unprejudiced, person, will but compare these two Covenants together, He may easily see, and conclude that though, the one be larger than the other, yet, That the Fanaticks took the Plat-form of their Covenant from the Bygot Papists.

Onely the Papists in their Covenant, Swore to Maintain the Ancient Hierarchy, and to preserve not onely the King, but also his Heirs and Illue.

Whereas, the Fanaticks, swore to extirpate All Hierarchy.

And although they swore to preferve the King, yet, they did not wear to preserve his Lawfull Heir, and Isue; for, they do not make the least mention of them, in their Covenant.

And it is to be noted farther, That although the Fanaticks, in their Covenant, swore to Preserve and Defend the King's Person and Authority,

Tes,

Tet, they swore to maintain him onely, in his Just Power and Greatness,

And they made themselves the Interpreters of what was the King's FOST Power and Greatness.

And farther,

]-

€.

10

100

nt ly

9.

00

7, ie

0

0=

y,

The Fanaticks, in their Covenant, swore to Preserve and Desend the King's Person and Authority,

Onely, in Subserviency to the Rights and Privileges of Parliaments, and the Liberties of the People and Kingdom,

All which, they, in their Covenant put before the Preservation of the King, his Person and Authority.

Whereas the Truth is this, to wit, That neither the Rights and Privileges of Parliaments, nor the Liberties of the People, can possibly be preferved and maintained, Without the constant Preservation of the King his Person and Authority, his Heirs and Successours, in his, and their, full Rights and Royal Prerogatives.

For,

The King is the Life of the Kingdom; He alone, by his Prerogative, gives gives Life and Being to Parliaments, and with the Breath of his Mouth can, and does, Annihilate them, at his pleafure.

He is the Spring and Fountain Head of all the Peoples Liberties; they are all the Refults and Effects of his Donations, upon Condition of their Fealty and Loyalty to him;

For in England, whatever Lands, Immunities and Privileges, the Subjects

enjoy,

They hold all, a Capite, from the King, and his Heirs and was a self

And therefore, to depose and defiroy the King and his Heirs, or to infringe their ancient Rights and Prerogatives, is truly to destroy the Subjects just Title to their Liberties and Enfranchisements; All which Liberties depend upon their Allegiance to the King and his Lawfull Heirs.

But we will descant no farther on these Rebellious Engagements and Covenants either of Papists or of Fanaticks.

Onely, we will take leave to add this, fcil.

That,

That, if, according to * Beaufrons, * Beaufric. 6. the Protestants, that is to fay, the E-P.52 piscopal Men of the Church of England, be (as, indeed, they are) like the Papists, in all, that is Good, in the Papists;

Then, we may, on the other hand, apouch for a Truth, that the Fanaticks, are like the Papists, in all, or most, things, which are † Bad, in † Ibid. P. 45.

the Papists.

ly

12

9

Ŋ-

e.

W

ŀ

t,

And therefore, if Beaufrons would have us to love the Papifts for what they are like unto us,

Then, Reason tells us,

That we ought to Dissent from both, Papists and Fanaticks, in what, they are contrary to us, and ever to Abhor their Treasonable Practices of Covenanting against our Lawfull Princes and their Heirs, upon pretence of Tyranny, Idolatry, want of Grace, or the like, for, He that hateth Righ Job 34. 17, teousness, shall (and ought to) Govern; 18. nor is it Lawfull to say unto a King, Thou art Wicked, nor unto Princes, Te are Ungodly.

CHAP. VII.

The chief Cause of Rebellion among Christians, is a Berlief of that false Position, soil. That Temporal Dominion is founded in Grace; Maintained by the Papists and Fanaticks.

Ebellion among Heathens and irreligious Men, commonly arises from Pride and Ambi* Jam. 4. 1. tion, from * Lust, Envy and Malice, from Discontents, Oppression and Tyranny:

But Sedition and Rebellion among Religious Men, who profess Christianity, and pretend to tenderness of Conscience, to Grace and Holiness, ordinarily, yea, chiefly, if not wholly, arises from a persuasion, and firm belief of that very salse Doctrine and Position, Polition, stifly maintained both by Papists and Fanaticks, scil.

Dominium Temporale Fundatur in Gratia.

That, Temporal Dominion is Founded in Grace:

And that onely the Godiy ought to Reign and Govern upon Earth.

Before we proceed to disprove the aforesaid Polition.

It will be necessary to inform the weaker fort of men, what is generally meant by Grace; to wit,

The Gifts and Graces of the Holy Ghoft.

Such as

1. A Faith in Christ, a Belief of the Christian Religion: Without which Belief, every Man is an Infidel.

2. All Moral Vertues, wrought in us, by the Holy Ghost concurring with our own endeavours, fuch as Sobriety, Prudence, Justice, Love, Meekness, &c. Sanctification and Holiness of Life and Manners: Without which every Man is Morally wicked.

The Fanaticks, both Classical, Congregational and Anabaptists (to doe them Right) by Grace, do commonly mean.

A Conversion unto God, a firm Faith in Christ, Sanctification and Holiness of Life, and other Gists and Graces of the Holy Ghost.

And farther, By Grace they all mean, A firm Belief of the Truth of their own several ways of Church-Government, in opposition unto the Hierarchy.

And whoever is not of their Way and Persuasion, is looked upon by them, as no better than an Heathen and Publican, or one Ungodly, and wanting Grace.

And therefore, if he, that is not of their way and persuasion, Be a King or Magistrate, and will not come over to them, and Declare that He has Grace, and is in the number of the Godly, if he will not doe so, then He has no Right to Rule and Govern over them, nor to impose Laws upon their Consciences, but they may Lawfully Resistance of Magistrate; And that because, according to them,

All Temporal Dominton is founded in Grace

10 th

S

Π,

版

of

to

e,

di-

The Papists, in like manner, by Grace mean not onely a Faith in Fesus Christ, &c. But also, and primarily, a firm Belief of the Pope's Supremacy, and of the Church of Rome's Authority over all others, in the Christian World.

And whoever denies the Pope's Supremacy, or denies the particular Church of Rome to be the Onely Catholick Church of Christ, is an Heretick, and has no true Grace:

And therefore if such an Heretick be an Emperour, King, or Supreme Magistrate, He ought not to Reign and Govern in any Christian Commonwealth, untill he shall openly Repent and Return to the Church of Rome; for untill that be done, He (though a King) is adjudged by them, no other, than a Graceless Heathen or Apostate, and therefore ought not to Govern; for, according to them,

All Temporal Dominion is founded in Grace; that is, in a Faith in Jesus Christ, and in a Belief of the Pope's Supremacy.

The

The Prerogative

The first, that we reade of, who professed and asserted this disloyal Doctrine

Of Temporal Dominion being founded in Grace.

Vit. Hildebr. 30.

fit.

* Platin in Was Pope * Hildebrand, Qui Sa-Davenant.de- tanam imitatus, se hujus Mundi Regna zerm. quest. universa pro imperio auferre & dare jactitavit.

opi

Wa

ab

Pr

Pr

th

be

W

fre

Who, like Satan, pretended that all the Kingdoms of this World, were at his Dispose, and that he being Christ's Vicegerent, had full power to give or to take them away, as he should think

And thus, fince him, the Popes of Rome have exercised that Lordly power, and have given and taken away many Crowns from Kings and Emperours, whom they have judged to be Heretical, and to have wanted Grace. and have disposed of them unto others, at their pleasure. As we have fully proved out of their own Writers, in chap. 5. sect. 1. p. 147. of this Treatise, to sect. 2.

The first Anti-Papists, that we meet with, who affirmed, that,

Temporal Dominion was founded in Grace, Were Were Wickliff, Huls, and the Waldenses, (she Monachis fas credere) if the Monks are to be credited, which (as Bishop Davenant notes) was their great errour.

But, as the same Authour observes, although those Good men were of that opinion, yet their errour and mistake was not so great, nor so gross, as that of the Papists:

M.

44

re

De-

to 11.

For, Huss and the Waldenses were absolutely against the Deposition of Princes for their Idolatry or want of Grace:

And therefore-they did affert,
That if Providence had placed any Prince in the Throne, and if afterward,
the faid Prince should fall from Grace,
become Idolatrous or Tyrannical, yet,
faid *they, it would not be Lawfull for tali Rege
any Subjects, nor for any other power ponendo ne whatever, to depose such a Prince for sitavit unhis Apostacy, Tyranny, or departure quam. Dar.

from Grace.

SECT

12. 17.

21.

SECTAL

Arguments proving, That, Temporal Dominion is not founded in Grace. are such as these, to wit; with the

1. DEcause it was Birth-Right, not Grace, which gave Hereditary Kings a just Title to their Crowns. and therefore, it was, That Infants have often times been Crowned Kings. before they have been capable of declaring to the World, whether they had Grace, or no: The street of the lotted

It was upon the account of Birth-Right, not Grace, that Jehoash, when 2 Kings 11.3. but one year old was called King, and when but seven years old He was Crowned, and the People folemnly fwore Allegiance to Him their King.

And therefore, although Fehoash proved a wicked man, and a Tyrant, 2 Chron 24. especially to his friend Jehoiada's Son. Yet he did not lose nor forfeit his Right to Reign and Govern as King;

> And the Reason for it was this, Because he did not lose his Primogeniture and Birth-Right.

For.

For, as Gerson truly notes, Dominium in subditos non amittitur, nist amisso eo in quo sundatur.

As long as any Hereditary King retains his Primogeniture, on which his just Title to the Crown is grounded, so long, he is King, and ought to Govern.

e,

y

en

as ly

Nt,

i,

ni.

OF,

And, forasmuch as it is impossible for any Prince to lose his Primogeniture (unless, as Nicodemus thought, he may be born again of his Mother.)

Therefore is it (in like manner) impossible, He should, by any equity or justice, lose his Crown, or be Rightfully Deposed, for any defect whatever, whether, for, want of Grace, Idolatry, or Tyranny.

2. Heathen Kings and Princes had a Right to Reign and Govern,

And yet, they had not Grace, as we know of, in the Senses abovementioned; Nay, many of them had not Common Humanity and Civility, but lived and acted contrary to Natural Reason and Morality,

And yet, God gave, even, them, Temporal Dominion, and placed some of them over his own people, the Jews, and Commanded the Jews to be obedient unto those said Heathen Princes, such as Nebuchadnezzar King of Assyria, Ahasuerus, Cyrus and Darius.

Yea, Christ himself confirmed Cafar's Title unto Temporal Dominion, although Casar was then an Instale, this Christ did; in that his Command, Give unto Casar what is Casar's, as well as, unto God, what is God's.

It is Bishop Davenant's note, wor(a) Apud In- thy our Remembrance, (a) scil.

ideles & im-

tendi hisce temporalibus sit plerurque injustus, Titulus tamen habendi potest esse justissimus. Dav. Deter. quast. 30.

> That there is a great difference, between the Right of Title to Government,

And the Right Mode of Governing,

and of using that Title.

For, an Heathen may have a just Title to a Throne,

And yet, possibly, not govern well and justly.

However, that personal Act of his ill Government does not destroy his personal Right and Title to Govern.

3. The Apostles and Primitive Christians, in cases of Right, and of Common Equity and Justice, did frequently Appeal unto Heathen and Unbelieving Magistrates; as for instance, St. Paul, Act. 25. II. Appello Cæfarem; I Appeal unto Casar.

And v. 12. Then Festus—answered, Hast thou Appealed unto Casar? Unto Casar shalt thou go.

And from this very Appeal of Saint Faul's unto Augustus an Unbeliever; does the Learned Geo. Carlton, argue Geo. Carl. and conclude, that, Temporal Domini- rifd. c. 1. on is not founded in Grace.

Regal. p. 2 :

4. God is well pleased with Heathen Princes, for making War, and for fighting for their Right, when by other Princes, they are oppressed, wrong'd and injured; and oft-times God gives fuccess and victory to the Oppressed Princes, as he did to Eschol, Aner, Gen. 14. 13, Mamre, and Bera King of Sodom, by 14. the hand of Abram, against Chedorlaomer, King of Elam.

Ergo, Temporal Dominion is not founded in Grace.

5. If no Man must Reign and Govern, but onely he, who has Grace, Then the People will never be assured, nor certainly know, who is their Lawfull King, and who is the Right Heir to the Crown, and whom they are to obey;

For, the People cannot affuredly tell who has Grace, and who has not. There are Hypocrites, who pretend to have Grace, and yet truly have none; and there are many, who do not publish their Grace, and yet have much.

Grace is invisibly resident in the heart, and none knows the Heart of Man, but onely God.

Thus this Position opens the door unto Rebellion: For no men will obey or own Him for their Prince, whom they do not know, whether He be their Prince or no; for if they should, then they may obey a Counterfeit, instead of their true and lawfull Prince, and so run themselves into a Præmunire.

6. This Doctrine of preventing Kings from Reigning and Governing for their want of Grace, can be invented by Christians for no other end, than to prevent all Passive Obedience unto Kings that shall prove Tyrannical, and to avoid going to Heaven in the fiery Chariot of Martyrdom: For, as * St. Augustine writes, there will * Cum Reges be no need of dying for Religion, if pro fallitate so be, wicked and ungodly Kings, who tem constituwant Grace, may not be suffered to unt malas le-Reign, and by their evil Laws to try of coronantur Believers faith whether found or no, benè credenand in such cases to experiment their pift, 50. fear of God, rather than of Man; for, according to the Apostles, there is a time, when God is to be obeyed, rather than Man, and when we are to dye for Christ, and for the Faith. And that can be Lawfully done, onely then, when by the Supreme Authority, we are commanded, either to dye the Death, or to deny Christ and his Religion.

In this case, we are to obey the Supreme Magistrate Passively, by dying the Death; and not Allively, by doing what he Commands; Because, what he Commands is expresly against the known Law and Word of God.

contra verita-

From

From which premisses, we thus argue, scil. That if it be (as in truth it is) a bounden Daty, and a noble Vertue, in us Christians, Passively to obeyour Lawfull Princes, by humbly and meekly submitting our Necks (without all Resistence) unto the stroke of that Death which they shall be pleased to lay upon us;

And if it be (as most certainly it is) a Sin in this case, to Resst Our

Princes,

Then from hence we may rationally conclude.

That Our Princes, though, supposed to be never so Wicked and Tyrannical.

Tet, They have a Right to Command us, and to Rule and Reign over us, and to doe with our Bodies (if we offend them) what they please; Otherwise, there can be no such thing as Martyrdom.

And therefore,

Temporal Dominion is not founded in Grace.

SECT. II.

The Evil Effects and Consequences of this Position, That, Temporal Dominion is founded in Grace, are such as these,

1. Onventicles.

Rebellion.

3. A Confirmation of Heathen Kings and Princes in their Infidelity.

I. Conventicles,

For, from a Belief that the King has not Grace,

And therefore, ought not to Reign;
From hence is it;

That the People do not look upon any Laws which the King shall make, to be valid, or any ways Binding their Consciences, especially, in matters of Religion, and of Church-Government;

And therefore, it is, that they, declining the established and publick Ordinances of the Realm, do run into private and unlawfull Conventicles, which they (the ignorant, deluded people) deem to be more Holy than the other.

Nor do they believe, they do, in the least, sin by Conventicling, contrary to the King's Laws

The Reason is, Because they are of full persuasion,

That it is no sin, to violate and break the Laws and Orders of a King, who (in their opinion) wants Grace.

And from hence also it is,

That the People (who are not better Catechifed and instructed) do so frequently leave their own Parish-Churches, and run abroad to the great Profanation of the Lord's holy day, either unto Conventicles, or unto other Churches;

And all is, Because they fansie, that their own Parish Minister wants Grace, at least, that he is not so Powerfull in his Preaching, nor so Holy (though he walks by the Rubrick) as is their Neighbour Minister.

Which is a very great errour, deflructive of all good Order and Conformity in the Church; For the Minifler's Sacred Office, and not his Person, obliges the People to a constant Attendance on his Ministery, especially, as long as he their Minister is Conformable unto the Orders and Canons of the Church, both for Doctrine and Manners. And if any Parish-Minister be vitious in his Life (which is a great Scandal to the Gospel, and is a crying sin in a Man that is in Holy Orders, yet if any be so) then his Ordinary, upon complaint and proof, ought to punish him: And not the People, as too oft they do, by departing from his Ministery, Contrary to Christ's Rule,

Which Commanded Attendance on the Ministery of the Scribes and Pharisees, although they were vitious and wicked:

er

ę.

And Christ gave this Reason for it, scil. Because They, (the Scribes and Pharises) sate in Moses his Chair; All therefore (says Christ) whatsoever Mat. 23. 3. they bid you observe, that observe and doe: But do not ye after their works; for they say, and doe not.

II. REBELLION.

For, from a strong Belief of this Position, scil.

That, Temporal Dominion is founded in Grace,

Have sprung most, if not all, the Sedition

Seditions and Rebellions, made against Christian Princes, by either Papists or Fanaticks.

It is evident by History, That the Popes of Rome, never fent out their Bulls, nor ever stirred up Subjects unto Rebellion, against any Secular Princes whatever, but onely, against such, as were by them judged to be Hereticks, and void of Grace, And therefore, not fit to Govern:

Nor ever was there either King, Emperour, or any Supreme Magistrate Deposed or Murthered by the Papists,

But it was upon the account of the faid Prince his want of Grace.

Hence arose the Spanish Invasion a-

The Gun-powder Plot against King Fames.

And the Irish Rebellion against King Charles the First.

And Oates his Popish Plot against King Charles the Second.

All arose from a Belief, That the aforesaid Princes, were Hereticks, and void of Grace, and therefore had no just Right unto any Temporal Domi- mian.

In like manner.

All the, above-mentioned, Plots of the Fanaticks, took their Rise, from this One salse Notion, scil.

That, Temporal Dominion is founded in Grace.

And because, they were of opinion, that the King and Governours were Wicked, Tyrannical, and void of Grace,

That therefore, they had no Right to Govern,

But it was Lawfull for the Subjects to depose and destroy them by force of Arms.

The Belief of this false Notion, made the Fanaticks (as was said before) to wage War against King Charles the First, and at last to Murther him.

To Banish King Charles the Second, and afterward Rebelliously to Fight against him at Worcester.

This made Venner and his Confederates to draw the Sword against our present most Gratious King, under the Notion, that he wanted Grace, and was an Enemy to King Jesus.

This made Stephen Colledge at Oxford, with his Protestant Flail, William Hone

The Prerogative

Hone and his Conspiratours at Rye-House with their Blunderbusses to Plot the Murther, both of our Dread Sovereign the King, and of the Illustrious Prince, James Duke of Tork:

Though, one of them, to wit, Hone, thought his Royal Highness to have had some, nay more, Grace, than His Majesty:

And therefore, Hone confessed, that at last, he was, for sparing the Duke, but for killing the King.

Though for ever bleffed and praifed be Almighty God, who wonderfully spared and delivered them, both, King and Duke, from the hands of their bloudy Enemies;

And we hope, and pray, that He will ever deliver them.

And we farther pray, that the People may be undeceived, and thoroughly convinced of their aforefaid great errour: for untill they be convinced, the King has no Security from them, whether Papifts or Fanaticks, of either his Crown or his Life:

For, although the King be truly never fo Orthodox, Vertuous and Pious,

Vet

271

Vin

and

Cr

110

the

in

Yet, upon the least failing, they will clamour and give out, that he is fallen from Grace, and therefore ought to be Deposed, and no longer, to have Dominion over them; for, according to their Belief,

Temporal Dominion is founded in Grace.

10-ne,

ing

dou-

He

10=

igh-

reat

ced,

em,

ther

ne-

0118 ,

Yet,

III. A Confirmation of Heathen Kings and Princes in their Infidelity.

For, this pernicious Doctrine, That, Temporal Dominion is founded in Grace.

Discourages Heathen and Unbelieving Princes from believing in Christ, and from embracing Christianity,

Because, if they should become Chri-Stians,

Then they are not fure to hold their Crowns long on their Heads, no, nor their Heads, long on their Shoulders,

For although they should not renounce Christianity, nor turn Heathens again,

Tet, if through natural infirmity, or prevalency of temptation, or excels of Passion, they should become vitious in their lives,

The Prerogative of, &c.

Or if, through contrary perfuation, they should not Believe, as the Papists and Fanaticks Believe,

Then they must be udjudged to have no Grace,

And the efore, to have no Right of Dominion over their Subjects,

But must be Depoted and Dethr med;

For.

Temporal Dominion is (say the) founded onely in Grace.

FINIS.

